CREATIONS Eng Visc Hereford, 1856 a Bt Herbert—These were Earls of Hereford from feudal times the first recorded by Nicolas being the Count of Brevelin the Norman commander of the van of the Conqueror's army at Hastings. Then we have Henry de Bohun (creation 1199), one of the 22 "Barons" appointed to enforce the observance of Magna Charta. His line ceases extinct in 1379, and in 1377 Henry Plantagenet afterwards Henry IV, was made Duke of Hereford. This title was merged in the Crown, but that of Earl of Hereford was used conjointly with Northampton, Buckingham, and Perche, apparently without warrant by Humphrey, Earl of Stafford, afterwards Duke of Buckingham (creation of 1444). The Viscounty now subsisting was conferred upon the 3rd Bn Henry in recognition of his services in the French wars of Henry VIII. That Barony after a while fell into abeyance, but was revived as a separate Peerage, and eventually made into the present Earldom of that title, q v The and Visc Hereford was promoted to be Earl of Essex and of Ewe, the Earl being the unfortunate favourite of Queen Elizabeth, this title, however, lapsed on the death of the 3rd Earl, the distinguished General in the Parliamentary Army, simultaneously with the passing of the above Peerage Barony into abeyance. The late 15th Visc Hereford was an Hon Canon of Durham

CHARLES 14th HARRIS, Sent 1290 — Herol Harris was by James IV created 1st Earl of Hertford (the U.K. Bar is extinct). The 7th Ld. became by his father's marriage 3rd Earl of Northdale, but the 5th Ld. and 6th Earl for feasted both hushonous on being taken prisoner at Pinkston Pass in 1794 and would have been executed but for the aid of his wife in securing his escape from the Tower. The Earl died altogether, but the Barony was revived by decision of the House of Lords in 1868 when Wm Constable Maxwell was awarded the title as 10th Ld (Deb. 11th, by counting the intermediate successions, not as him the 10th). The late 11th Bn received a U.K. peerage, but it expired on his death without male issue. Female succession had changed the surname from Harris to Maxwell and then Constable the father of the 10th Bn himself exalted by the attainder assumed the recent compound form, but it now once more changes in the case of the present Peeress and her issue

CREATORS. In HOWARD de Walden, Eng. 1507 by writ, Bn. Seaforth, UK 1826 — Lord Thom. Howard, K.G., son of the 4th Duke of Norfolk, was created Bn. Howard de Walden and six years later Earl of Suffolk. He is stated to have been mainly instrumental in discovering the Gunpowder Plot. On the death of the 3rd Earl that title went to a brother, but the Barony, being a creation by writ, passed into abeyance between two daughters, and so continued from 1889 to 1894, shortly after which it devolved upon the 4th Earl of Dorset as 5th Bn.
On the death of this nobleman in 1903 — his eldest son as well as the daughter and sole child of that son being both deceased — the Barony passed to the son or first daughter, who had married that Rose Ellis, mt. Bn.
St. John, but the Earlston went to the Earl's son, subsequently created 1st Marq. of Bristol. The 4th Bn.
Howard, a Field Marshal in the Army (successor to the 3rd Earl of Suffolk), was created Bn. Lynbrooke, but on

HOWTH EARLDOM (Irel 1767), extinct 1909 on death of 4th Earl—surname St Lawrence

* In its original form this was a very ancient Peerage the Irish Barony dating from about 1430, though the Earldom with the St Lawrence Vicinity began only in 1707, still later a UK Barony of Howth was conferred on the late Earl in 1882. We learn of the origin of the line that Sir Americus Tristram, who, together with his brother-in-law Sir Jno de Courcy, had gained a victory over the Irish, was in 1177 awarded the lands and Barony of Howth, but was afterwards slain with his entire force. The sword with which he fought is still preserved at Howth Castle. The 19th and 25th Bns by tenure were each appointed Lord Chancellor of Ireland, the one in 1483 and the other in 1599. The 25th Bn was known as "The Blind Lord." The 27th Bn was created Earl and Viscount

Observations UK A Bt 1848, Bn Hylton, 1866—The title of Bn, was conferred upon Capt the Rt Hon Sir Wm G. Hylton Jolliffe, 1st Bt, M.P. for Petersfield, representative (as senior co-heir) of an ancient line which began with Robert de Hylton, first summoned by writ in 1205, but at whose death the title fell into abeyance. Long previous even to this however, and before the process of creation by writ had commenced, there were Barons Hylton of Hylton Castle, Co Durham, whose title was held either by tenure or else by courtesy as "Barons of the Bishopric," described in Burke's "Extinct Peerages" as "sitting with a sort of provincial peerage in the Great Council of their ecclesiastical Palatine." The use of this title was discontinued at the death in 1766 of John Hylton, M.P. for Carlisle. Another Hylton Barony, apparently an offshoot of the preceding, was conferred upon Alexander de Hylton in 1332, but his daughter married Roger Widdington, one of whose descendants was made Bn Widdington so that this Hylton Barony became amalgamated with his own, and an attender of the 4th Bn W in 1716 involved the extinction of this Hylton Barony. See notes under "Jolliffe" as to the correct family name.

Their eldest daughter, Emily Jane (who on her mother's death became Bessie Cairnes in her own right, but not Bessie Keith for both the remaining Baronies under that title had been devised only to her mother and was male) married the 4th M. of Landsdowne, thus transmitting the Cairnes Laity to his heirs CREATION. 1st Bn. of Kingsale and Bn. of Ringrose 1772 by tenure, stated to have been confirmed by patent 1797—Sir John de Courcy, an English Knight, the famous founder of the family, is celebrated for having in conjunction with his brother-in-law Sir Edmund Tristram (who obtained the tenure Barony of Howth), effected the conquest of Ulster, and again, after having given offence to King John, as having acted as English champion in a single combat with the champion of France (who how ever did without striking a blow), thus regaining his sovereign's favour. The King, who was told in "Burke" had actually imprisoned him for a year, but upon receipt of the challenge from France and finding no one else ready to accept it, Sir John was liberated for the purpose with the above result of his antagonist being seized with panic and taking to flight. The two monarchs fraternised over this event and joined in desiring to see an exhibition of Sir John's strength, upon which he clef a massive helmet in twain at a single blow. This exploit so delighted his master that he asked him to choose whatever he should give him, whereupon the Knight replied that he had estates and titles enough, and would ask the privilege, for himself and all successors, or remaining covered in the royal presence. He died in 1220, apparently without issue, but soon after his death the Barons of Kingsale and Ringrose are stated to have been granted to his kinsman Miles de Courcy. The title of Earl of Ulster (q.v.) appears never to have been held by this line

CREATION 1st Kinloss, Scot 1800 (see "Buckingham Dukedom")—Sir Edw Bruce (1st), who was twice Scotch Ambassador to England, was 1st 1st Kinloss, the 3rd 1st being made Earl of Elgin, and the 4th, Earl of Ailesbury, whilst the 7th, by a shifting of the line, was the 3rd Duke of Chandos All these and other titles have either lapsed or separated off, leaving the Kinloss Barony wholly to itself The present Bns is called by some authorities the 8th in line, and correctly as far as assumption of the title denotes On the death of the 6th 1st (who was also 4th Earl of Elgin) the succession devolved upon the 3rd Duke of Chandos (last of the line extant 1789), who never assumed the title, nor did his daughter and heiress, who married the 2nd Duke of Buckingham and Chandos of the line created 1800, nor again their son the said Duke (to whom the succession de jure passed from his mother), so that the 3rd Duke had in 1888 to substantiate his claim to the Barony before the House of Lords and Lt. Keith of Inverurie, 1877, with succession to his female in default of male. U.K. Bn Kintore, 1898 "Lord Inverurie" is the courtesy title of the heir when a firstborn son—Sir Wm Keith was created Earl Marischal of Scotland about 1848, and thus honour passed by hereditary descent like that of Earl Marischal in England. The 3rd son of the 5th Earl Marischal the Hon Sir Jas Keith, was in 1866 made hereditary Knight Marischal of Scotland in recognition of his living concealed and so preserved the Scottish regalia during the Civil War, and in 1877 the above Earl and Lordship were added. The Earl, however, joined in the rebellion of 1745 for which he was deprived of the Knight Marischalship, though of that only. But his relatives the 10th Earl Marischal who had participated in the same rebellion, was attainted, so that on coming to succeed in 1847 in the Peerage title he was disqualified and they remained suspended all his death. A daughter of the above Earl, however, had married the 5th Lt.

Falconer (a title originally conferred upon a son of Sir Alex Falconer) and their grandson Anthony Adrian, 8th Lt. now became 9th Earl of Kintore. So the matter is decided in "Burke" but the present Peer regards the predecessor in this last as an actual holder of the title, and thus considers himself the 10th Earl. The U.K. Barony was granted to the Earl ordinarily accounted the 7th

CRISTONS Del. Id of Kerry and Lismaw, 1792, by tenure, E of Kerry and Vis Fitzmaurice, 793, Vis Fitzmaurice and Bn Dunkeron, 793, E of Shelburne, 793 Scot Bn Naunne, 188, restored 1884 (the Barony of Keith, once attached to this, has been extinct from 1867) Gt Br Lt Wycombe, Bn of Chipping Wycombe, 186, M of Landsdowne, E of Wycombe, and Vis Calne and Calston, 794.—One of the three triple Peerages (Lismaw p 42) Under that of Ireland, which is much the earliest, we find Thos Fitzmaurice, grandson of a sister of Stangbow, being made 1st Lt. of Kerry and Lismaw, this 1st Lord obtaining the Barlham with its accompanying Viscounty. The second son of the latter was created

Visc Fitzmaurice and Bn Dunkeron, shortly afterwards Earl of Shelburne, and still later Bn Wycombe in the Peerage of Gt Britain. His son, the 2nd Earl of Shelburne, who was a General in the Army, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, and eventually Prime Minister, obtained the Marquessate with the associated British titles. The 3rd Marq was Chancellor of the Exchequer and Lord President of the Council, afterwards till 1828 a Cabinet Minister without portfolio. The 4th Marq, Bn Wycombe, as stated in the text, has only come to this house through the marriage of the present Peer's father (4th Marq, K.G., Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs) with the late Baroness. This last Peerage was originally conferred upon Robt Naunne, an advocate, who had been imprisoned ten years for fidelity to the house of Stuart, but whose successor, by remaining steadfast to that line and refusing allegiance to William III., forfeited the title, which was only restored in 1824. A great granddaughter of the 2nd Bn married the only Visc Keith, and their daughter in 1857 succeeded as Bess Naunne and Keith on the death of the 6th Bn. But the K title expired at her own death, being limited to herself and heirs male.—The surname Pety, now practically disused, is derived from Sir Wm Pety (father of the 1st Earl of Kerry's wife), who was punished by accomplishing (1654-8) the survey of a large portion of Ireland, the name was first assumed by his grandson, the above 1st Earl of Shelburne

Thomas Osborne, and Bt, was successively awarded the whole of the Peerage titles given under "England," and that of Visc Osburne in Scotland. His son, the 2nd Duke, long before accession, obtained the other Scottish title, the Godolphin Barony being granted to the 2nd and son of the 5th Duke whose son eventually succeeded as the 8th. A question has been raised of late as to the origin of the title Leeds, and it has even been distinctly assigned to County Kent. It is true that there is a Leeds Castle near Maidstone and that in an early period the Osborne family was located at Ashford, some 24 miles distant in the same county. But at the time of the creation of the Peerages it is abundantly clear that the Northern county had become their place of abode. The 1st Bt, who already in 1800 was a Knight of Kiverton, near Sheffield, was Vice President of the Council of the North and Lieut General of the Royalist Forces raised there, his successor was created Bn Osborne of Kiverton and Earl of Danby both in Yorks, he was successively High Sheriff and Lord Lieutenant of the entire county and Governor of Hull and owned ground rents in the town of Leeds itself, and it was upon him that the Dukedom was first conferred. Thus as to the Leeds Castle in Kent, it passed through the hands of very various owners but not a scrap of evidence exists of the family in question having resided there for a day. It is now in the hands of the Wykeham Martin family, a recent member of which produced an elaborate and costly history of it, in which work a son of his has informed us the name of Osborne does not occur, in fact, the only feeble attempt we have met with at tracing a connection consists in the allegation that the dural family is descended from a granddaughter of St. Warham St. Legier, who had once been owner of the castle. We believe the notion to have been first started by a former Duchess who had previously been a domestic servant in the family, and it afterwards found promulgation in the wild gossip often contributed to M.P. The estimable Leeds historian Thoreby recounts an interview with the 1st Duke in which the latter stated expressly that he had chosen the title on account of Leeds being 'the most considerable place for trade in the county,' and Sir H. Nicolas says distinctly, "Leeds Co York." Thus, as the present Duke has to means of deciding the matter, the Kentish theory may, in the words of a leading authority whom we have consulted, be safely dismissed as one of those "cock-and-bull ideas hardly worth seriously confuting."

CREATION B of Leicester and Visc Coke, U.K. 1837 — This Earldom, which first appears in Sir H Nicolas's pages with the remote date of 1203, has undergone a long succession of extinctions and forfeitures till it has become distinctly a modern line. The most notable among former holders of the title, excepting only Sir Simon de Montfort, was the discarded favourite of Queen Elizabeth a son of the Duke of Northumberland. He (Sir Robert Dudley, K.G.) was the only representative of that creation, and later extinct lines were started in 1568, 1744, and 1784 (for the last of these see under "Townshend, Marq"). An illustrious ancestor of the present Peer is Sir Edward Coke, knighted by James I and appointed Chief Justice of the King's Bench. A descendant, Thos Wm. Coke for many years M.P. for Norfolk, was the recipient of the present titles. The creation of 1744 was also to a Coke. It has been noticed that from the birth of the 2d Earl in the present line to the death of his late son there occurred the long interval of 127 years (1779-1906), the 2nd Peer having been born when his father was over 70, and himself having reached the age of 86. The Earl and Earl was twice married and had eighteen children, the eldest of whom was 49 years older than the youngest who now has a mere 27 years older than himself. The 2nd Earl headed a deputation to George III in favour of recognizing the independence of the American Colonies, and at a later date he delivered a violent attack upon that monarch's memory, thus defaming for a time his own elevation to the Peerage. When at length this elevation did occur he took the title "Leicester of Holkham," on account of the Marq Townshend having been constituted Earl of Leicester, and that title being borne by his supposed heir, who sat as such in the Commons whilst the new Earl sat in the Lords. But an Act of Parliament pronounced that son to be no son, and the Townshend Earldom of Leicester became extinct in 1866. Still, from 1837 up till this last year the two Earldoms of Leicester actually existed side by side.

LEINSTER (pron Lanster), DUKE OF MAUPHIG FitzGerald, 6th Duke (Irel), PRINCE DUKE, MARQ, and EARL, 1114 as Vice Lanster (Gt B), was a Page at Coronation of King Edward son of 5th D, b March 1, 1837, suc 1893, unmarried Seat, Carton, Maynooth, Co Kildare

CREATIONS 1st E of Kildare, 1318, M of Kildare and E of Offaly, 1351, D of Lanster, 1366 Gt Br, 1st Lanster, 1747 U K Bn Kildare, 1870—Gerald Fitzmaurice FitzGerald, the 1st Bn (laurel), was son of Maurice FitzGerald, "patriarch of the Irish Geraldines", and a distinguished warrior, who, with the aid of Strongbow and a mere 500 English troops defeated 30,000 Irish, who under Rodenok King of Ireland, had invested Dublin the latter monarch having previously driven the King or Lanster from his territory, whilst the purpose of Maurice and Strongbow was to reanimate him. The 2nd Bn Orla (laurel again) introduced the Geraldines and Dominicans into Ireland, the 5th was created Earl of Kildare, and it was in this time that the family coat of arms containing three monkeys was adopted, in consequence, it is said of this Earl, when an infant having them rescued from a fire by a tame ape which tenderly bore him aloft into one of the towers

Several Earls of Kildare have figured in English history The 7th was Lord Deputy of Ireland and afterwards Lord Chancellor. The 8th, called "Gentle Man" (the Gerald the Great), was for 33 years Lord Deputy and Lord Justice, and was also a warrior famed for his strength

He was devoted into supporting Lambert Simnel in his claims to the throne, and engaged in the conflict with Henry VII's troops, but he afterwards made his peace with the King, and in the following year was valiant aid against Perkin Warbeck. The 9th Earl incurred the hatred of Wolsey and was committed to the Tower, where he died from horror at the sentence of execution pronounced against him for the murder of Archbishop Allen, committed by his followers. The 10th Earl his son, in consequence threw off his English allegiance and revolted, but surrendered under promise of pardon, which Henry VIII violated and had him hanged, drawn and quartered. The 11th Earl, then but a boy of twelve, had to flee the country and was housed and brought up at Rome by Cardinal Pole. Edward VI restored him his estates, and Mary his honours. The 12th Earl was constituted Marquess and Duke and awarded also the British Viceroyalty. The Kildare Barony was created for the heir of the 3rd Duke during the lifetime of his father

CREATIONS Scot Bn Melville, orig 1846, extended remainder under which the title continued 1879, E of Leven and Bn Balgonie, 1847, E of Melville, Viscount Kilmahie, and Bn Rath, Monymusk, and Balwearie, 1860—Sir Robt Melville (181), a F O of Scotland and Ambassador to England, the 1st Bn, was distinguished by his countess endeavour to prevent the shameful accusation of Mary Queen of Scots, which boldness of her cousin Elizabeth to threaten his life, but later that arbitrary woman had passed away, King James elevated him to the Peerage as Bn Melville, also appointing him Vice Chancellor and an Extra Lord of Session (as Lt Murdoch) The 4th Bn obtained from William III the Earldom of Melville with its accompanying peerage and baronies, though previously he had been involved in a rebellion of 1701-1702, and been in consequence attainted The Earldom of Leven had a gap for commencement, having been conferred upon Gen Sir Alex Lesley, a distinguished commander, who having first served under Gustavus Adolphus, afterwards led a Scottish Army of the Covenanters in an invasion of England against Charles I, and had an important share in the victory of Marston Moor but who, upon the treaty with that monarch, so won his favour that he raised him to this Peerage, and obtained his continued services upon the Royalist side His granddaughter married the 1st Earl of Melville, and thus, on the failure of the direct Leven line, the two Earldoms came to be united The late 13th Earl was a K G and a Scottish Representative Peer, also Lord High Commissioner to the Church of Scotland from 1861 to 1895 There have been two Countesses in the Leven line, and the present Peer will be reckoned the 14th or 15th, according as these are or are not included in the numbering Our practice in this work is to count the entire line, male and female alike, but some authorities allow themselves to vary from one plan to the other, doubtless to quit the preference of individual Peers The late Earl desired us to call him the 13th.

cousin once removed of 10th E. and son of David Aytone Lindsay, Esq. (a descendant of the 4th Ld., not Earl—see below), b. April 18, 1832;
suc. 1894, mar. 1866 Emily Marian, dau. of the late Robt. Crose, Esq., and widow of Capt.
Edm'd C. Barnes Serv. Kilcomoghar Castle, Fifesh., Wormstone House, Craik, same Co.

Origines Scot. Ld. Lindsay of the Byres, 1445, E. of Lindsay and 1st Parb. 1523, Viscount of baron and Ld. Kilburne, Kinghorn, and Drum, 1793—Sir Jno.
Lindsay (kt.), Justiciary of the Nor. part of Scotland, was created Ld. Lindsay of the Byres, the 10th Ld. received the Barldom, and the son of his 2nd son was separately created Viscount of baron the latter a grandson eventually succeeding as 5th Earl of Lindsay. Meantime a complication had set in to this higher title, causing it for some 250 years to be associated with the Earldom of Crawford. The succession to both Earldoms was open to "heirs male general" (Viscount), but upon the 10th Earl of Crawford having no issue, he in 1662 obtained a new charter diverting the descent to the "direct heirs" of his friend and remote kinsman, the 1st Earl of Lindsay, with reversion, upon the failure of such heirs, to the previous line of remainder, i. e., his own co-lateral. Thus the 1st Earl of Lindsay took the title of Earl of Crawford Lindsay, and his five next successors continued to hold both titles, but in 1808 the "direct heirs" of the Lindsay line failed, and then, in virtue of the above charter and the regular law for "heirs general," the lines divided, and each went to its own collaterals—the Lindsay Earldom to the 10th Lord Lindsay of the Byres, and that of Crawford to the 6th Earl of Salacarras. It must be observed that the above Earls all along had held this Lordship of the Byres, but that in 1808 a reversion had to be made to a descendant of the 4th Ld., followed in 1879, as decided by the House of Lords, by another reversion, but only to the descendant of another son of the same Lord. The 4th Earl of Lindsay, with Crawford, distinguished himself in the wars with the Turks and French, commanding in 1749 the Black Watch, then styled "the gallant and"
and Lord Crawford-Lindsay's Highlanders—"The name of Baskin was first assumed in 1779 by the grandfather of the 5th Earl de Byres, who, however, never adopted the title, and was known as Sir Henry Lindsay-Baskin.
he was created a Baronet in 1836 for his military achievements in Persia, but this honour expired with his son the late Earl

Kerr of Newbottle, Oxnam, Jedburgh, Dolphington, and Ribart*, 1702 UK Ba Kerr of Kernehaugh, 1821—Mark Kerr, an Extraordinary Lord of Session and Master of Requests, obtained the title of Lord Newbottle and later on of Earl of Lothian. A cousin of his was created Ld. Jedburgh, and another cousin Earl of Ancrum, but the titles all covered. The 4th Earl was raised to the Marquessate and the 5th Marq. made a UK Baron. The year creation seems to have adopted the form "Ancrum," which is the name of one of the family estates, but "Ancrum" is the orthography used in the title of the heir when a firstborn son (compare the above forms "Ld. Newbottle" and "Newbottle Abbey").

His granddaughter, Bess in her own right married Sir Jno Campbell, son of Sir Colin Campbell of Stenochry, and her husband was awarded the Loudoun Earldom with its accompanying Baronies. Of the English titles it is sufficient here to explain that those of Botsuax, De Molines, and Hungerford had become united in Mary heiress of the 4th Ld. Hungerford, who married the heir to the Hastings Barony, which afterwards became a Marquessate, this last becoming extinct on the lapse of male heirs whilst the Derwents went into abeyance, from which they were liberated in 1872. They had come into the Loudoun line through the marriage of *Sir Jno R. The 6th in his line was outlawed by the Parliament in 1649 for the support he gave to the Stuarts, and as his son and successor continued that support into the reign of James II, the force of the unrevoked outlawry was revived to exclude from Parliament the next (8th) holder of the title, and thus was not reversed until 1795 during the tenure of the 22nd Baron.

Inverness, town 100, 38 Grosvenor Gdns, Eaton Sq., S.W.

CREATIONS 1st Lovat, Scot between 1499 and 1464, U.K. 1897—Hugh Fraser, one of the hostages for James I. of Scotland a ransom when set at liberty in England (1464), was given by that monarch the Barony of Kinnaird which is considered by some, though hardly by Burke, to have constituted him 1st Ld. His grandson of the same name, who married a daughter of Ld. Glamis, was created Ld. Lovat, or Ld. Fraser of Lovat. An unhappy episode in the family history was enacted by the 21st Ld. and the eldest daughter of the 6th. They eloped together, but the woman, who on her father's death had styled her self Baroness, returned to her mother and married Alex. Mackenzie. The Court of Session eventually deprived her of her title and gave it in 1792 to her former lover. He however had in the interim of over 30 years distanced himself by a further course of violence. He was in 1792 attainted and sentenced to death for raising the estates of his intended spouse, the sentence not being carried out, he forcibly possessed himself of her own title and compelled her to marry him, and for this he was outlawed in 1801. His crimes being gradually condoned by time he was, as just stated, at length awarded the Peerage, but, taking part in the rebellion of 1745, he was impeached and executed on Tower Hill. After the death of his youngest son who did not bear the title, the succession passed to a descendant of the 4th, upon whom the U.K. Barony was conferred.

CREATIONS 1st King, Bn of Ockham, St Br 1795, E. of Lovelace and Viso Ockham, U.K. 1838—Sir Thos. Wentworth (Kt) was granted the title of Dn Wentworth, which has now become a distinct Peerage, whilst Sir Peter King, Kt and M.P., maternal nephew of John Locke the philosopher, and who became Lord Chief Justice of Common Pleas and ultimately Lord Chancellor, was the 1st Ld. King, Bn of Ockham. The 8th of the latter series was made Earl and Viscount. The 2nd Bn W. the last English Governor of Calcutta, was made P.C. and a Kt. of the Bath. The 10th Bn was created Earl of Cleveland, but that title was no farther. Two granddaughters followed as holders of this Barony, and in their line of successors we find the further extinct titles of Viso Wentworth and Bn Lovelace. The Wentworth Barony itself in 1845 fell into abeyance between the deceased Baron's sister Judith (who by marriage had become Lady Milbank) and his nephew, Lord Scarsdale, but this condition was terminated in 1865 by Anne Isabella, daughter of the former and then widow of Lord Byron (whose surname was Noel-Byron), being left sole heir. Her only child, the Hon. Augusta Ada Noel-Byron, married the above noblesman, who was created 2nd Earl of Lovelace. The late Earl had thus the high distinction of being a grandson of the poet Byron, but as this was upon the maternal side it confers no such relationship upon his half-brother, the present Peer. Lord S.'s widow, the above well-known Anne Isabella, Lady Byron, on the death of Bn Scarsdale in 1865, became in her own right Bn Wentworth, until her decease in 1866, when she was succeeded for two years by her grandson. Her daughter the Hon. Augusta Ada, the endangered "Ada" of the poet, predeceased her mother in 1886, leaving two sons and a daughter, so that the Wentworth Barony passed to the elder of these sons, she had married William, 8th Bn King, who became 1st Earl of Lovelace. The elder of the two sons, with Sir D. Wentworth by descent from his mother, died before his father, hence the younger now became with Sir W. 4th Bn. King, and eventually Earl. The 1st Earl added the name Lord to King, the 2nd and 3rd exchanged the two names for Mubank, but King only is now retained.

CHRONOLOGY In Macdonald, Irel 1776, 2 Bt Sent 1868—The Celtic ancestors of this line for some 600 years have the title "Lord of the Isles, the last Lord being, also Earl or Ross, but this noblemen was claimed for the son and both his titles were annexed to the British Crown, the Lordship thus coming in 1469 to be a title of the heir to the throne and since the Union to be one of the Scottish titles of the Prince of Wales (the present one is descended from a half brother of the last Lord of the Isles) A Baronetcy commenced a century and a half later and was located at Blet in the island of Skye, the Peerage adopted the similarly pronounced word Slate, passing it off as a genuinely existing place in the Azores, see page 5 for similar instance, but note that the Earls of Arbutnot were originally a Macdonald line Sir Alex Macdonald, 5th Bt, was raised to the Irish Baroncy and until 1910 his five successors continued to hold both titles. In that year Sir Alexander W M Bonville Macdonald of Bhopal Hall (see below, etc) bequeathed the lordship under Scottish law, of his 3rd and father eldest son of the 3rd Bt Macdonald and that with his right to the Baroncy. The Irish Peerage, however, was unaffected by the legitimization in Scotland of a child born before marriage

MACDONALD OF THE ISLES, LADY This title is sometimes applied to his wife of Bn Macdonald, and was for a time given to mention under the belief that it implied no more than a useful conventional distinction of that lady from the seven other Ladies Macdonald, whom the preceding pages contain. It appears however, that the designation is a matter of keen controversy between the different branches of the Clan Donald, the question being as to which of these has the better right as judged by seniority of descent from the Celtic Lords of the Isles, and the opinion of Garter King of Arms has been obtained to the effect that no person has a right to adopt the title until the matter has been formally settled

Creation: Eng. 1892 Marlborough and Bn. Montagu of Kimbolton, 1892, D. of Marlborough, 1892, D. of Kimbolton, 1892—several Dukes of Montagu had been created from the time of Henry III onwards, and there is understood to be a family connection between the first of these and the present Prince. The existing Viscountcy and Earl's were conferred upon Sir Henry Montagu, 1st Bt. for the City of London and Lord Chief Justice of the King's Bench, he was afterwards made Lord Privy Seal. The said Earl was a brilliant General on the Parliamentary side and took part in the victory of Marston Moor. Evelyn (son of John) for his Lord General. The creation of the King, however, caused him to abandon that side, and he was subsequently deputed by the Lords to congratulate Charles II. on his resignation. The Earl, who had been Ambassador at Venice, Paris, and Vienna, and had been conspicuous in opposing the cause of William of Orange against James II., was raised to the Dukedom. The 4th Duke was Governor of Jamaica.

* * * The state of uncertainty in which all three years this Baronet was involved was cleared up in November 1906 by a decision of the Court of Session that the parents of the above Sir Edwd Berkeley M were validly married in Scotland in 1832 and that he was their eldest lawful son. The fact was as follows. In 1832 his parents entered into an irregular marriage in Scottish form, and after a cohabitation extending over several years they were in 1847 married with religious rites. Sir Edward was the eldest son under the former title, but the charge of illegitimacy was advanced against him and a son born under the latter condition assumed the title upon the death of the 9th Bt in 1883 being himself succeeded unquestioned by the above Courtenay Cecil Mansel, now nearest heir but from 1864 to 1903 styled 11th Bt. But both the 10th and 11th successively now appear to have had no right to the title, and the latter at once abandoned it on being made aware of the claim of his uncle. This the Court of Session has now definitely confirmed, pointing out that Scottish law recognises as lawful an irregular marriage with subsequent cohabitation.

CREATIONS. St. B. E. of Mansfield of Co. Notts 1776, and of Co. Midl. 1778. Lord 1801, Viscount 1806, Viscount Stormont, 1842. Lord Balvaird, 1847—Sir David Murray, cap. bearer to James VI., whose life he had helped to save from the Gowrie plot, accompanied that monarch to England, and was created 1st. Baron and afterwards Viscount Stormont. The title of Lord Balvaird was given to a collateral, the Rev. Sir Andrew Murray, whose son, the 2nd Lord, succeeded in 16th Viscount. The title of Baron of Mansfield (extinct) was conferred upon a younger son of the 5th Viscount, the Hon. Wm. Murray, a friend of the poet Pope, who concurrently was appointed 1st. Chief Justice of England. He (the 2nd) obtained subsequently two patents of Baron, of which the former assigned the remainder to the wife of his nephew, 7th Viscount Stormont, owing to a mistaken belief that no English Peerage could pass to a Scottish Peer. When the contrary was ascertained the second patent was granted with remainder to the Viscount himself. Thus through the death of the grantee without issue, the Earldom passed to the line of the Viscounts but the Bys layed altogether whilst two distinct Earldoms of Mansfield passed to the above husband and wife, but on the death of the latter they were reunited, the 4th Earl upon the male side being the grandson and nearest heir the succeeded her 2nd. his father in 1840. On the Imperial Roll of Peers the title stands "Earl of Mansfield," not "Mansfield and Mansfield," though the 4th Earl referred to himself by that double title.

OPINIONS. Scot. E of Mar (orig. Mar) bef 1824, but given precedences of 1805 (A.S.) as earliest date for which documentary evidence was produced at the "Decree of Ranking" in 1800. Id Eskine 1829 and Id Allox (v) 1848 (a to which see under folio line) — We are un-derbld for the earlier part of the following particulars to the Hon Ruridhi Eskine's investigations into the early history of this ancient and obscure Peerage, which he has most courteously and at considerable pains contributed for publication. The origin of the house of Mar has been traced back to Core, son of Lughaidh King of Munster in the era of St Patrick. Core, who was banished to Scotland at the instigation of his stepmother, is said to have married Mongthonna, daughter of the King of the Picts, and from this marriage the Mar line is regarded as having sprung. The descendants of Core bore the title of Mormhaird Mharr or Great Stewards of Murr (the form "Mharr" being the genitive of "Murr", and "Mormhaird", in plural
 "Mormhaird", a variant of earlier form of the title usually given to "Mormer". Of these descendants probably the first whose identity is clear was Donnchall (Donald), who was slain at Olontair in 1024. But the first to be styled Earl or Comes was Ruaidhrí (Ruthven)
 "Ruthen", but pronounced and often written "Ruar", whose name appears as "Comes" in the charter founding the Abbey of Scone in 1124-25 and in the "Book of Deer" in 1128, though in the latter styled Mormhaird in fact this latter title was very probably still used continuously until the extinction of the Colla dynasty in the person of the "Maid of Norway" at the close of the 13th century. William, the 5th Earl, was co Regent of Scotland in 1226, and the contests of this powerful nobleman with Darnard, who declared him illegitimate, add a fresh element of obscurity to the history of this line. William, however, "remained in possession"

Donald, the 9th Earl was Regent of Scotland in 1328.
 Margaret Countess 12th in line married Donald 2nd Earl of Douglas father of the Earl who fell at "Bosworth".
 These names thus far accepted by Mr. Fraser is either certain or probable. It is through the element of rivalry came some doubt in one or two instances may be thus stated: 1. Ruridhi 2. Gillicroch, 3. Morgund, 4. Malcolm, 5. Duncan, 6. William, 7. Donald, 8. Gartnait, 9. Donald, 10. Thomas, 11. John, 12. James, 13. Alexander — and No. 14. making the title scot.
 The 14th earl Robert Eskine was a collateral relative who had been created Ed Eskine, but who was not recognised as Earl by the Crown. His successor was granted the Allox Lordship but formally dispossessed of the Earldom and that title was now merged in the Crown until in 1865 this dispossession was pronounced unjust and the 19th Earl and 5th Lord Eskine was fully recognised as lawful holder of the higher of these dignities.
 The Gartnuch Lordship was a feudal honour stated to have been conferred upon Lady Christian Bruce, sister of King Robert I and wife of the 8th Earl, but uncertain.
 The above 19th Earl was also the 2nd in what is now declared to be the line of Mar and Kellie which continued for several generations to be united with the original line without apparently any allusion of their distinctness being made. The Eskines and Allox Lorships had recomposed the leading title and these are now claimed as belonging to the line. The ground of exclusion of the above earl Robert Eskine was that he was the husband of the Countess who had preceded him out at his own descent was not from these but from the 8th Earl there was obviously reason enough for a reversal of the decree though under the title had been bestowed upon sons of the earl and gr. James, and the legitimate successors from the 14th to the 18th were Earls de jure alone. The 19th Earl was Lord Treasurer of Scotland, the 20th was Chancellor, and the 21st Secretary of State but he suffered punishment for sharing in the insurrection of 1745. The 21st was in 1824 restored to all the titles (the 25th and 26th being counted in the numbering though legally deprived), and it was on the death of the 29th that the separation of the titles occurred as below.

The two Earldoms, "Mar" and "Mar and Kellie", have much interest in their history as well as they be evident from the summary above. In the 18th century the line of Mar became involved in the proceedings detailed above, but in 1765 after an investigation the title was awarded to its then claimant, but the conditions were stated to be subject to the House of Lords, on reviewing it in 1875 pronounced them to have amounted to a new creation. The succesion, however, had for centuries continued as before, and in 1834 the Earldom of Kellie was united with this original Mar Earldom but on the death of the holder or the joint titles both Earl of Mar without issue in 1866 they again became separated, the title of Kellie going to the next male heir, whilst the original Earldom followed female succession to the present Earl of Mar. Finally, on the conclusion of the above mentioned investigation by the House of Lords it was decided that the Mar Earldom declared to have commenced in 1765 must also pass to the inheritor on the male side, whilst the 24th Earldom remained as the distinct Peerage of Mar, a special Act being passed in 1886 to place unimpaired the continuity of that ancient Peerage. The course of changes may be thus summed up. Up to 1834 what are now pronounced to have been two Mar Earldoms had from 1765 been held by one and the same Peer, from 1764 to 1866 they remained united and with the further creation of the Kellie title, from 1866 to 1875 this last title parted off and left the two as before, and since 1875 the Kellie line has been possessed of the said creation of Mar.

CREATIONS Scot, 1st Erskine, 1299, and 1st Alloa, 1299, E of Mar and creation, see under that title; 1299, 1st Durilton, 1299, 1st Fentoun, 1299, D of Kellie, 1299—Sir Robt Erskine (Kt), was preceding article, who had been recognized by Robert III as entitled to the Earldom of Mar, was granted the Erskine Lordship, but it was not till some 200 years later that his line was established in the higher title. His successor appears to have had the Alloa Lordship added. The 4th Lord Erskine fell at Bannockburn. The 6th Lord Erskine had the Earldom of Mar confirmed to him by charter, and this document is explained above as the origin of the division of the titles it being deduced therefrom that this Peer was constituted recipient of the 1st Earldom of the new creation whilst he continued to rank as 20th under the old. The Durilton Baron and Fentoun Viscount were about the same date conferred upon Sir Thos Lescrope, Kt, a grandson of the 4th Lord E, in recognition of his having shared with Sir D and Murray (see "Munrofield") in ransoming King James from the Gowrie conspiracy, and to him also rather later, the Ballis Eulion was recorded. On the death of the 20th Earl of this latter line the 27th (6th) Earl of Mar became his successor. The division of the House of Lords in 1891 was thus given. Resolved that Walter Henry, Earl of Kellie, Viscount Fentoun, and Viscount Erskine and Durilton, both made out his claim to the Earldom of Mar created in 1299. CHARLOTTE Visc Masseerene and Bn of Loughborough, 1860, Bn Ulst, 1900, Visc Ferrard, 1905 (C), Bn Ulst, 1860—Sir Jno Cloutworth (Kt) was made 1st Visc Masseerene and was succeeded by his son-in-law Sir Jno St Albington, 5th Bt. The 5th Visc was made Earl of Masseerene, and that title was held successively by his three sons. The last of these left only a daughter, so that on his death the Earldom lapsed, but the titles of 26th were open to his general (a very exceptional condition in the Irish Peerage) and thus admitted of a female succeeding, the daughter accordingly became Viscountess in line and her marriage, as stated below, brought about the union of the two lines. The Ferrard Viscy and apparently the Irish Barony of Oriel were conferred (with remainder to male issue) upon Margaret Amelia Burgh, who married the Rt Hon Jas Foster, 1st Speaker of the Irish Parliament for a time, to whom eventually was awarded the UK Barony. Their son was the 2nd Visc Ferrard, the Peer who married the above mentioned 5th Viscount Masseerene and the issue of these succeeded his mother as 26th Visc Masseerene and his father as 3rd Visc Ferrard. This Peer is summoned in the latter title only to elections of Irish Representative Peers, the claim of the Masseerene Viscy living never had occasion to be put forward. The issue is now that of Ferrard on the male side but the 2nd Visc assumed the Masseerene surname of St Albington which is now practically the only one in use. It will be observed that the diverse terms of remainder have temporarily involved a difference in the heirloom to the two Viscties

MELDON, Knight Sir ALBERT Meldon, Kt Bach (1910), B.L., barrister-at-law, a resident magistrate in Ireland 1883-1910 b 1845, mar 1883 Mary, dau of Bernard Doherty, Esq., of Bunrara, Co. Donegal Res, Vasey House, Bray, Co Wicklow

MELDRUM, Baron (U.K. 1815), Impet title of M. of Huntly

MELFORD EARLDOM This title is dormant, but may possibly accrue to Lady (MARIE LOUISE) SUSAN EDITH GILES Drummond, 7th in line of Earldom (See), but adopting style of "Lady Edith Drummond," only, she is however Comtesse de Lusseau and Baronne de Valrose (France) dau of 14th D of Perth and 5th of Melfort, b April 29, 1854, suc (?) 1902 on death of her father, when the two Earldoms are considered to have divided, unmerged Res, The Cottage, Kew

CREATIONS Scot Vise Melfort and Ed Drummond or Gilmour, 1898, D of Melfort, Vise Perth and Ed Drummond of Kincross, Castlemaun, and Gilmour, 1898, but stated to have been surrendered to the Crown in the following year and re-conferred, with succession open to females, in 1898 France Comte de Lusseau and Du de Valrose, by marriage 1897—These titles were all conferred upon the son of the 3rd Earl of Perth, but the supposed surrender has introduced a complication. The late Earl of Perth and Melfort left as his only surviving child the above daughter Lady Edith Drummond, and if the fact of the surrender could be proved she would be the unquestioned Countess of Melfort, the Perth Earldom, which is distinctly heritable by males alone, having passed to Vise Strathallan, who makes no claim to the other Peerage. Lady Edith has written to us to assert that if that surrender could be established she would at once lay claim to the title, but adding that no such substantiation has been found. Thus the original terms of remainder, "to the heirs male of the body of John, Earl of Melfort," are the only ones upon which any present action can be taken, and the claim of Lady Edith is in effect abandoned. James II. when in exile conferred upon the Earl the title of Duke of Melfort, and his son subsequently gave that of Duke of Perth to his brother the 4th Earl. Both these honours were of course worthless as to recognition in this country, but Louis XIV. in 1702 made genuine French Peerage of them both, and on the Continent we are informed that even James's creations were accepted. The Dukedom of Perth expired in 1706, and the Melfort Dukedom, which was limited to heirs male of the body of the 1st Duke, has now also lapsed.

MEREDYTH, BARONET of Greenhills. This title (1st. 1860) is now pronounced extinct, no proof being available of the marriage of a former ancestor of the name, who in consequence has promptly withdrawn. The 7th Bt registered a pedigree in accordance with which the line subsisted until the death of the 10th Bt in 1904, but the genuineness of that pedigree has since been gravely suspected, though Burke continues haughtily to insert 'Sir Charles George Meredyth' but adding that the official authorities regard the line as having become extinct on the death of the 1st Bt in 1865. The lady, hitherto known as widow of the 10th Bt, will consequently also have her title extinguished.

ORATIONS Scot. E. of Moray and Lord Abernethy and Strathern 1861, Lt. Du. 1861, E. of Moray and 1st Lt. Du. 1861, 1861, Bn. Stuart of Castle Stuart, 1861 "Lord Du. 1861" is the courtesy title of an old son—There have been repeated Earloms of Moray some from Clive times. The 1st Earl of the present series was a son of King James V, Jus. St.ewart, Prior of St. Andrews (His charter of 1568 shows he was supplied by others of 1568 and 1566, the last including "Laird of Moray", but under 1568, the present Earloms remains with the original grant.) He became Regent of Scotland, but was assassinated in 1567. His daughter married the 1st Du. Du. and the husband became 1st Earl in right of his wife. His son was assassinated, but the 2nd Marq. of Huntly, who did the deed, had obtained a warrant empowering him to "execute justice" on the accomplices in the Earl of Bothwell's raid on Holyrood House. The 2nd Lt. Du. Du. was Sir Jas. Du. Du. of Du. Du. whose sister married John Graham of Cluny and was mother of the "Admirable Crichton", the 2nd, as we have seen, became Earl of Moray. The 3rd Earl in 1861 resigned his titles into the Kings' hands and obtained a new charter of them. The Lordship of St. Colme was granted to a brother of the 2nd Earl. The 5th Earl received the British Baroncy. The Lady of Gray was really included in this line through the daughter of the 2nd Bn. Gray marrying the 2nd Earl of Moray, their grandson coming to succeed as 5th Earl and 2nd Du. Upon his death without issue the titles separated again.

CREATIONS. Eng. Lt Mowbray, 1823 by writ. Lt.
Seegrave, 1825, Bn and Lt Stourton, of Stourton, Wills 1828 (the oldest Barony by letters patent now extant)

Chmn to a Norfolk Earldom of 1828 disallowed Nov, 1905

—The first nobles to hold the two oldest of these baronies were Roger de Mowbray and Nicholas de Seegrave, but the two lines became united by the marriage of the 4th

Bn Mowbray with the Bess 5th in the Seegrave line (whose grandfather had in 1324 been created Earl of Norfolk, and whose mother was Countess and afterwards

Late Duchess of the same) and their son, the 6th

Lt Mowbray and 7th Seegrave, was made Earl of Nottingham and Duke of Norfolk. The Duke, as he now was, was charged by the Duke of Hereford (afterwards King Henry IV) with attempting a murderous intent on King Richard II, and this charge he challenged. Hereford to substantiate by single combat

The King forbade the duel and banished them both from the kingdom, when Norfolk died of the plague at Venice (Nicholas says "of grief"). His son, who succeeded, was refused the title of Duke, but retained the double Earldoms and Baronies. He was involved in the rebellion of Scrope, Archbishop of York and arrested and beheaded without trial. There was thus no attainder, and his titles passed to his brother, to whom afterwards the Dukedom was restored. They remained in this line until the death in 1475 of the 5th Duke (with Lt. Mow-Jay) who left only a daughter, to whom the Baronies passed whilst the higher honours became extinct. She was affianced to the Duke of York brother of Edward V, who, with himself, was murdered in the Tower, the lady pre-deceasing. The Baronies now fell into abeyance between the male descendants of the daughters of the 6th

Bn, who had respectively married the ancestors of the present lines of Norfolk and Berkeley. The abeyance was determined in favour of John, Lord Howard, to whom the Dukedom was restored, but who fell at Bosworth and was attainted, as stated under "Norfolk". The history of the two houses is now identical until in 1777, on the death of the 9th Duke and 2nd Bn, the two

Dynasties fell again into abeyance, whilst the Dukedom passed from this line to the nearest male heir. It was a hundred years later before the abeyance of the Baronies was ended by their conference in 1898 upon the 2nd Bn.

Stourton. The 1st Peer in this line was Sir John

Stourton (Kt.), a distinguished soldier and statesman,

Treasurer of the Royal Household and M P for Wilts and Dorset, and whose descendant now came into this line through the marriage of the 15th Bn with Winifred, one of the co-heiresses to the Mowbray title. The 6th

Bn was hanged (by a silken cord) for the murder of a former steward of his father's. The 10th was heavily fined on suspicion of complicity in the Gunpowder Plot

Naesmyth's appendix to his notices of this line the curious origin of the family name In the reign of James III and during a conflict with the House of Douglas, an ancestor of this present family sought refuge in a smithy and disguised himself as one of the workers suspicion however was excited on the arrival of the pursuers and in his agitation the fugitive struck a false blow, on which one of them rushed upon him with the words, "Ye're nae smith" But he proved more of an adept at his legitimate calling, so with a hammer and a red hot bar the smith and he stood on the defensive, rallied the King's followers, and put the pursuers to rout, thus winning from the monarch a grant of lands with the motto "Non aet sed marie" The inventor of the steam-hammer descends from the same ancestry

The 1st Scottish Bty was Sir Archibald Napier (Kt.), who accompanied James V. into England, being afterwards made a Judge of Session, a Scottish Privy Counsellor, Baronet, and Baron. His father was John Napier, famous to mathematicians as inventor of the Napierian logarithms. The 5th in line was a Baroness, the succession being open to "four general whistowers." Her daughter, who on the death of her brother, became Mistress of Napier, (see Inverclyde, "Marriage of Peersesses"), married Sir Wm. Scott, and Bt. of Thurlston, but their son, the 6th Bn. and 2d Bt., resumed the surname of Napier. The 1st Bn. was, a few weeks before his elav-tion to the Peerage, created Lord of Napier, but on the passing of the Bt. on 14 Jan. 1871, this Baronet went to a collateral and hereditary domain, till 1871 was, added to him. William Napier, said to be, whose grandson is still alive, a 14th Bt. of Napier. The 10th Bn. a K.T. and P.C., who had been Bt. of the United States and Netherlands and Ambassador to Russia and Prussia (Governor of Madras, and Arthur Viceroy of India, was given the U.K. Peerage. The ancestor of the house was pronounced to have "in power," and thus saying was given a name to the family name.

CREATIONS U K Bn Nelson, 1803, Earl Nelson and Viso Marton of Trafalgar, 1805, "Viso Trafalgar" has been the old son a courtesy title, but "Viso Marton" has been substituted since death of the late earl — "Of Nelson and the North" still less of the South) there is little need to disavow it any length After his victory of the Nile the gallant Admiral was first created Bn N (1796) and then Viso N (1801, after Copenhagen), with no special remainder, three months after this last he was a second time created Bn N, but with special remainder to his father In the same year he received the Sicilian honour of Duke of Bronte, for which see further under "Bridport, to which house it passed by marriage His brother and successor was raised to the Earldom with the new subsisting Viso, he was succeeded by his nephew, whose surname of Bolton was exchanged for Nelson. Of the third great naval victory, which was fatal to its hero, it may be worth remarking that the correct pronunciation is as Byron gives it, "Trafalgar", and not as we are in the habit of pronouncing the London Square in which his Column stands His Lordship was exalted as Earl the courtesy title "Trafalgar" applied to eldest sons is also pronounced with accent on the last syllable

CREATIONS Scot B of Newburgh, Viscount of Kynaird and Bn Levingstone 1850—Sir Jas Levingstone, and Bt, a staunch supporter of the Royalists and afterwards a Gentleman of the Bedchamber to Charles II, was created Viscount Newburgh in 1647, but this title, together with the Baronetcy, expired at the death of his son. In 1866, however, the three titles above had been conferred upon the original residuary with remainder to "heirs general," thus the daughter of the 2nd Earl succeeded. Eventually, through the marriage of the 7th Countess with Marquess Bandini, the line became what it is now—distinctly foreign

H.L., Shiffield, Broomfield Park, York, Linton, New Abbey, Danby, 12th, 123, Norfolk House, 31 St. James's Sq., S.W.

Successors By E. of Arundel, feudal title, abt. 1200, confirmed 1243 (still by tenure only, as owner of Arundel Castle). Du. Maltaver, 1230 (by writ), D. of Norfolk and E. of Surrey, 1243, Du. Fitzalan of Clun and Oswestry, 1247, E. of Norfolk, 1244 (it is more ancient Earldom, of 1244 which was claimed by Lord Maltaver, but disavowed by the Committee of Privileges)—It has been said, "happy is the nation that has no history" and is the Norfolk Dukedom has had a very notable history, it follows that its career has been very far from a happy one. In fact, extinction, abandonment, forfeiture, extinction, followed to an heir by pardon and restoration, have dogged its course for generations and centuries. The Duke of Arundel is given by Nichols as the 7th Duke of Arundel the 7th and 8th Duke were both attainted and beheaded (1266 and 1277), but the honours were restored. John Maltaver, 1266 Du. of that title, was proclaimed a traitor in the year of his investiture, but restored some 20 years later. His grandson succeeded as 8th Duke of Arundel, and henceforth the two lines are associated. The 13th Duke was attainted, but the title was restored to the 14th later on he was created Earl of Norfolk. Thus last title, as noted above, had been previously created in 1322 the recipient being Thomas Plantagenet, summoned to the Brocton, 3rd son of King Edward I. who was also the first to receive the title of Earl Marshal (there had been "Marshals" in the family before him), which continued in the line and was revived at or soon after each fresh creation. The Dukedom had its beginning in the house of Maltaver, 1244, the 5th Du. of that title being made Duke of Norfolk in 1327, but he was banished in the same year, and died either of the plague or of grief. His eldest son was banished, but the title and earldom were restored to him. The 5th Du. of that line led to the issue, so that the Dukedom became extinct, while the Mowbray and Segrave Baronies went to their respective daughters. Another extinction followed in the person of the infant daughter of Edward V. who was associated with him in the Tower. One of the three co-heiresses, however, married Sir Robert Howard, of which issue, however, married Sir Robert Howard, of which son Sir John Howard, who had distinguished himself in the French wars of Henry VI, was created 1st Duke of Norfolk in the present line in 1483. Lord of the titles of Hereditary Earl Marshal, son of his Adm. of England, he also received grants of land in Suffolk, Kent, Cambridge, Wilts, Somerset and Cornwall, whilst a special provision awarded him £500 a year from the Exchequer, which, to enable him to carry up the dignity of his office of Earl Marshal. His eldest daughter, unfortunately led him to court in his lot with the fortunes of Richard III. His first wife, a bastard, but in vain, for "John", as they styled him, followed "Dickon" to the north, and following it even at his own (of course it was his) property in detail, titles a forfeiture, and his son, the Earl of Surrey, the victor of Flodden field, was also attainted. He however was restored, and in 1524 newly created Duke of Norfolk, ranking as Duke. His successor was also attainted, but afterwards restored with the title of Duke, whom Duke's descendant was "one of the brightest ornaments of the house of Howard, whose iniquitous execution was the last tyrannical act of Henry VIII." held thus only a courtesy title. His father's life was only saved by the death of the tyrant himself, but the 4th Duke, who followed him to the block in 1572, was his grandson. This 4th Duke was attainted and beheaded under Elizabeth in 1572 for commutation with Mary Queen of Scots. The feudal Dukedom of Arundel was not affected by the attainder and in 1572 Thomas Howard was restored to the Dukedom with the original precedence of the 1st Duke—i.e. 1243. His brother and successor (as 5th Duke) had already been created Earl of Norfolk, the Howard of Castle Rising, and Earl Marshal of England, thus offering no real break in the restoration of the Dukedom in 1560. On the death of the 5th Duke in 1777 the Norfolk Earldom and Howard Baronies (captured and the Mowbray, and Segrave Baronies fell into their second abeyance, as usually passing to a successor line. The additional title of Fitzalan, which was that of the Lords of Arundel up to 1260, was assumed by the 14th Duke in 1842.

Walpole, the famous Prime Minister of Georges I and II, after being made K.G. (the last of the few commoners who were ever so honoured) was in 1725 created Earl of Orford, Visc. Walpole, and En. of Houghton. His son, who also held distinguished Government appointments, had many years previously been given the title Du Walpole of Walpole, with remainder to the male issue of his grandfather. The 4th Earl, or the older line was Horace Walpole, a noted politician and litterateur, the owner of Strawberry Hill, Twickenham, and 3rd son of Sir Robert. But the latter's brother Horatio had been separately created Du Walpole of Wolterton, and to his son Horatio the surviving branch of Walpole also now passed, he being later on created 1st Earl of Orford in the present line.

ORMOND, 1st D of Ormonde, 1828, E of Orsery, 1828, Vice Thurlow, 1st D of Ormonde, 1828 (E of Bracknell, Kilkenny, 1828, see below also for Bracknell) U.K. M. Ormonde, 1828—Theobald Fitz Walter, who accompanied Henry II into Ireland was created Chief Butler in 1177, his successor assumed the title of Le Butler, which grew into the family name James the 1st Butler, having while a minor paid 1000 marks for his liberty to marry whomsoever he pleased "alioed himself accordingly with a granddaughter of King Edward I, and was forthwith created Earl of Ormonde. Their son the 2nd Earl was called "The Noble Earl" by virtue of his royal ancestry. The 3rd Earl purchased in 1392 the Castle of Kilkenny, which has ever since been the family residence. The 5th Earl was by Henry VI. made Earl of Wiltshire, a K.G., and Lord High Treasurer of England, but he was captured by the Yorkists and beheaded. The Earldom was restored by Edward IV to his brother and heir, a nobleman stated to have been "complete master of all the languages of Europe," and who was sent as Ambassador to several Courts, but who died during a pilgrimage in the Holy Land. The 7th Earl was also attainted, but restored. The 8th, a remote cousin, who succeeded in 1565 had in 1567 to relinquish his title to his predecessor's son-in-law, who was also created Vice Roebuck and Earl of Wiltshire, and was father of Lord Roebuck and Anne Boleyn, both beheaded. The 9th possessed Earl was given the Orsery Earldom as a solace, and on the death of his rival without male issue was restored to his former title. The 9th Earl who was made Vice Thurlow, was poisoned, together with his eldest and eldest son, at a supper at Play House, Holborn.
The 10th, termed "The Black Earl" from his dark complexion was made by Elizabeth I. Lord Treasurer of Ireland. The 11th, who became Lord Lieutenant of the same, was created Marquess and afterwards Duke of Ormonde, the latter title in the Peerage of both kingdoms, he was also made Earl of Bracknell in England.
He is known as "The Great Duke of Ormonde," but the 2nd Duke was equally distinguished as a military commander under both William III. and Anne, but under George I. he was impeached for high treason, attainted, and deprived of his English titles. He died in exile and his brother succeeded as 3rd Irish Duke, but died childless whereupon all his titles expired, but the Irish Earldoms and Viscounty passed de jure to the heir male of the family and at length 1793 were confirmed to the 7th holder of the title of Earl of Ormonde. The 10th Earl was awarded the title of created and existing Marquess etc. as also the Imperial Barony. The Irish titles of E. of Limerick (Karrick, Karrick, or Karryke—1793) and 2nd Arlow (1828) have been also ascribed to this Peerage, but Mr. Collyns regards the former, in one or other of its forms, as probably correct and as having "passed unaccountably" the branching off of the recognised Carrick Earldom may not improbably be the cause, but the Arlow Barony seems shadowy also together. There have been reputed editions of a Butler Barony in this line (Eng or U.K.) but the only one extant has passed to the Lucas Duvon (late Lucet) Earldom—a daughter of the 1st Mr. Butler having married the 2nd Earl Cowper, to whose successor it passed in 1772 upon removal of an aide order which nullified it. The Scottish Barony of Dingwall is also brought into this family by the marriage of the 1st Duke with Elizabeth Preston Bess in her own right, but that also passed to the Lucas line

DERIVATIONS Eng. E of Pembroke and Bn Herbert of Chulst, 1855, E of Montgomery and Bn Herbert of Shurland, 1865 UK Bn Herbert of Lea, 1882 - Wm Herbert, statesman and soldier, was created Bn Herbert of Chulst and on the following day Earl of Pembroke. The 4th Earl who was Lord Chamberlain, Clerk of the Council and Chancellor of Oxford University obtained the Montgomerie Earldom with its accompanying Barony 25 years before succeeding his father in the older titles. The 8th Earl was made Viscountess of Pembroke and Earl of Northampton and Ireland and Lord of the Treasury. The present and 13th Earls were sons of Hon Sidney Herbert and son of 11th Earl, created Bn Herbert of Lea in 1861 and dying the same year. At his death his eldest son succeeded as 2nd Bn, and in the following year became Earl of Pembroke, the Barony thus merging in the Earldom and adding a third Barony of Herbert to that Peerage. The Earls of Carnarvon are descended from the 8th Earl of Pembroke. Nicolas takes a feudal Barony of Marston of Tamworth, which was created by Wm the Conqueror and from which the King's Champions have arisen

PERTH, EARL OF WILLIAM HUNTLY Drummond, 15th Earl, 11th Vis Strathallan (both Scot), late Capt 3rd Batt Black Watch (Mil), Chief of Clan Drummond, son of 10th Vis Strathallan and a remote cousin of 14th Earl b Aug 5, 1871, suc to Viscy 1893, to Earldom 1902, unmrrd Seat, Strathallan Castle, Machanay, Perthshire

CREATIONS Scot Hered. Thane of Lennox, 1096. Hered Steward of Menteith and Strathgairn, 1473. 1st Drummond of Cargill, 1488. E of Perth and 1st Drummond of Stobhall and Montfex, 1505 (remainder to heirs male whatsoever), 1st Mar 1569. Vis Strathallan and 1st Drummond of Crombie 1586. The origins of the two earliest titles is quite obscure. Jas Drummond, a PC and Constable of Sirlin Castle, who had been employed on various embassies, was created 1st D. of Cargill. The 4th D. was made Earl of Perth and the 4th Earl was awarded by James II, while in exile, the title of Duke of Perth, which title continued to be used till the death of the 6th titular Duke. By this time the Earldom had become dormant through an attainder but the nominal succession went to a cousin whose son was confirmed in the title as 12th Earl. On the death of this last in 1806 the Earldom passed to the line of Melfort (q v) and the two Earldoms remained united until 1902, when the descent of the venerable 14th Earl separated them again on account of the difference in the terms of remainder—that of Melfort stated to be open to female succession passing, if such could be proved, to his daughter and only surviving child (who however leaves it dormant) whilst the Perth Earldom went to the nearest male relative. Vis Strathallan involving the absorption of his own Viscy. The title of 1st Melfort was given to the Hon Jas Drummond and son of the 2nd D. of Cargill is great grandson of the 1st D. and the 4th D. M was promoted to be Vis Strathallan. He held a command in the Royal Artillery in 1868 and afterwards joined the Marq of Ormonde in the same cause in Ireland. He was taken prisoner at Worcester, but escaped to Scot Land, and on the dispersion of his party there in 1746 he entered the army of Russia. The 4th Vis was slain at Culloden and attainted was pronounced against him in the following year. Owing, however, to a verbal inaccuracy in the bill the title was still assumed, and under the 8th Peer it was legally restored.

Powis, and the Herbert of Ch. 1861—The Irish Barony was conferred on the famous Indian commander who fought with the British in the War of 1857, author of the Black Hole. He returned to India, and afterwards with only 3,000 men completely routed Durh. at the head of 70,000. After this he became Governor of Calcutta and then overthrew the power of the Dutch in India. He continued to be M.P. for Shrewsbury after elevation to the Irish Peerage, but died in 1794 by his own hand. His son and successor received the British and U.K. titles. The earlier Peerages Bn. Herbert of Ch. and Earl of Powis had been conferred upon Henry Arthur Herbert in 1743 and 1748 respectively. Edw. Olive, the 2nd Earl of the present line, married the daughter of the last Earl of the preceding, who was of the family of Herbert, and that surname has succeeded the Earl assumed by licence. Still earlier titles than any of the preceding were the Barony Powis of Powis Castle (1669) and the Marquessate of Powis (1697)—both extinct in 1748. These may also be mentioned the Dukedom of Powis and Marquessate of Montagu created by James II. after his flight to France—titles, of course, never recognised as valid.

CREATOR Scot Ld Ruthven, 1848—Sir Thos Ruthven (Kt) was the 1st Bn of the present line, the titles of Ld Ruthven (1849) and Earl of Gowrie (1868) b vng being forfeited by attainted in 1800, in consequence of the plot known as the Gowrie Conspiracy the 1st Ld b of the now line was grandson of the 2nd Ld of the former one The original patent of this Peerage having been destroyed by fire, a question has been raised as to whether it allowed of descent through a female, and 'Directly' accordingly treats the present Bn as a claimant only, he having had three Baronesses among his predecessors But Burke furnishes a series of facts which show that the succession has never hitherto been considered open to question, whilst the successive Peers have been summoned as Barons or Baresons to every coronation from that of George II onwards

CREATIONS Eng D of Rutland, 1595, Bn Manners of Haddon, 1597, by writ, D of Rutland and M of Granby, 1793. UK Bn. Rous of Belyor, 1596—Thomas Manners, 13th Lt. Rous (see "De Rous" which is the same Peerage), was created 1st Earl of Rutland, the two titles running together until the death of the 3rd Earl, when the Barony went to his daughter who married the Earl of Essex, but their son was succeeded in the Barony by the 5th Earl of Rutland thus bringing it back to the former line, the latter Tailorid having devolved upon the brother of the 3rd Earl, and so proceeded till, on the death of the 5th Earl just mentioned, it passed with his daughter (his only child) to the line of the Dukes of Buckingham, the 6th of whom she married. On the death of the Duke it fell into abeyance out of which it was called in the reign of George III in favour of Charlotte, wife of Lord Henry FitzGerald, whose descendant is the present Duke de Eox. The 9th Earl was made D. Manners of Haddon and afterwards elevated to the Dukedom. The late 7th Duke, a K.G. and G.C.B., was respectively a Cabinet Minister between 1829 and 1839—variously as First Commissioner of Works (twice), Postmaster-General (twice) and Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster.

CREATION Eng. Bn. St. John of Bletso, 1859. A Bt. 1860—Oliver St. John, 8th Bn. Beauchamp of Bletso (beysant Portvel), was the first to obtain this Barony. That of Beauchamp had been conferred, by Edward III., upon Roger de Beauchamp, a distinguished soldier and Chamberlain of the Household. Sir H. Nicolas mentions no fewer than eight Baronies bearing the title of Beauchamp, and that of Beauchamp of Bletso was created by writ in 1293, but remained dormant from the above Roger's death in the absence of any further summons. Upon the creation by patent of the St. John Barony the other title was revived, but through female inheritance it passed successively from this line to the Bails of Nottingham and Peterborough, and the Duke of Gordon, all of it fell into abeyance in 1836 between the four surviving sisters of the 5th Duke and the then heir of the Duke of Manchester. The 2nd Bn. St. John was one of the Judges in the trial of Mary Queen of Scots. The 4th was ma's. Duke of Bolingbroke, but that title expired with the 3rd Earl. The existing Bolingbroke Viscty., however, starts from the same ancestry as this. The form "Bletso" is that of the Roll of the Peers and of "Debrete" and Mr. Coke's, elsewhere it is given as "Bletso" or "Bletso."

* The late Count de Salis was Ambassador from the Grisons Republic to Queen Anne, and his son, the said Count, was naturalized 1790 as a British subject. All younger sons, and their sons, have a right to prefix "Count" to their Christian names and similarly daughters can prefix "Countess" so long as they are unmarried. The family—which contains now between one and two hundred members, mostly German but some Italian and French—were created Heral Kts by Pope Pius V in 1572. The name is Italian, but the branch given under de Salis 19 v for all other names has ennobled it and thus takes the preposition as part of the surname.

CREATIONS Eng. Bn Cecil, 1503, Vis Cranborne, 1504, E of Salisbury, 1505. St Br M of Salisbury, 1780.—There were Earls of Salisbury from the time of Stephen, but the title underwent several temporary extinctions. The 3rd Earl in the second line was beheaded by the rabble at Cirencester in 1200. Richard Nevill, the 1st in the next line, was attainted and beheaded. His successor, Earl John de Warwick, was slain at Barnet in 1471. Both Baridoms were next conferred upon the Duke of Clarence, the murdered brother of Edward IV. Then the Duke of Gloucester, afterwards King Richard III, was made Earl of Salisbury. After him Margaret, daughter of the Duke of Clarence, was Countess, but she too was attainted and beheaded. This brings us to the commencement of the present line, which was created simultaneously with that of Exeter. The Rt Hon Sir Robt Cecil, younger son of Wm Cecil, 1st Burghley and Secretary of State under Elizabeth, was awarded the above three English titles shortly after King James's accession. The 7th Earl, an F.R.S. and Lord Chamberlain to Geo III, was raised to the Marquessate. The said Marq was Lord Lieutenant of Middlesex and Lord President of the Council. The late 3rd Marquess, E.G. and G.C.V.O., was three Prime Minister and four times Secretary for Foreign Affairs. Previous to his accession to the Peerage he had been (1833-51) an M.P. at first as Lord Robt Cecil and from the death of his elder brother as Vis Cranborne.—The family name is conventionally Cecil only, that of Gascoyne having been added by the said Marquess on his marriage with a lady of that surname.

ORATION U.K. Bn Savile, 1888—The 1st Bn was the Rt Hon Sir Jno Savile, GCB, who had been Minister Plenipotentiary to several Continental Courts. His original name was Savile Lumley, which he exchanged 1837 for Savile, the present Peer in 1868 preserving the surname which had formerly stood second, thus how ever must have been for himself alone, as he states in "Savile Lumley" for the names below. There had existed a much earlier Dymond and Vandy of Savile, and the 2nd L.L. as created Earl of Sussex in 1544, but at his death in 1571 all his hols. expired, and though the name is Savile, no mention is made in either 'Burke' or 'Lodge' of any connection with the present house.

Laves, Esq., Old Southcote Lodge, Reading, 5 Roselyn Court, Hampstead, N.W. (Broughton Castle, 1st to 1st Alga Gordon-Lennox).

CHARLES, 1st Bn. b. 1845 and Sele, 1847 by writ, 1852 by patent (precedence governed by latter)—Sir James Finnes, Warden of the Cinque Ports and Lord Treasurer of England, was created 1st Bt., subsequently, however, he was imprisoned in the Tower, whence he was notoriously dragged by Jack Cades mob and 1st beheaded in Chesham. His successor was made Viscount of England under the great Earl of Warwick, but afterwards he fled to Flanders with Edward IV., and was ultimately slain at the Battle of Barnet. The next four Barons were never summoned to Parliament, but the 7th received a new Barony by letters patent. The 8th Bn. (and by patent, but the numbering is reckoned from the 1st Bn. by writ) was distinguished as a leader on the end of the Parliament against King Charles, but though he remained "rebelliously disposed" he died in 1856 without having suffered any punishment from that Monarch's son. He was created Viscount Saye and Sele, but at the death of his son the 2nd Viscount in 1871, the Barony went into abeyance, the one by writ being regarded as governing the succession, but the Viscount held on till the death of the 6th possessor in 1912. At this date the abeyance was determined in favour of Thos. Twissleton, a Major General in the Army, who then succeeded as 13th Bn. (the numbering of Burke, dated retrospectively from the date viz. when the abeyance was actually terminated, though three successors de jure never assumed the title). The next Peer assumed the name of Finnes (also Hardley, which went no further than his successor, and the 15th and Twissleton), who was then Residentary of Hereford Cathedral, adopted the addition of Wykeham-Finnes. He was 1st in descent from Geoffrey 1st Saye, one of the 25 Barons who wrong from the King the observance of Magna Charta. The family name is conventionally Finnes only, though the full form occurs in the "Army List."

*The last four Bts were also holders of the Btcy of Hartington, which passed in 1901 to the Rt. Hon. Sir Alex. Fuller Acland (5th Bt of St. Andrew), the two Btcs of 4th Bt and Hartington were created the ones in the name of Scott and the other of Bateman, but the latter was made open to succession of male descendants of the 1st Bt's daughters. The 2nd Bt of 4th Bt married the daughter and co-heir of the 1st Bt of Hartington, and thus the 3rd Bt in the 4th Bt has come at his birth to be inheritor of the other line also. This explains the double name "Bateman Scott" or "Bateman and Scott" formerly in use.

CREATIONS Scot E of Seafield, 158c Reidhaven, and Lt Ogilvie of Deskford and Cullen, 1701, a Bt 1825 UK Bn Strathpey, 1884.—Sir Walter Ogilvie (Kt) was in 1616 created Lt Ogilvie, and his son James was in 1638 and 1641 advanced to be Earl of Findlater The Lordship and 1st Earldom expired, but the 1641 Earldom lasted till the death of the 7th in his line James, 4th Earl of Findlater, received two creations of Peerage the former including a Viscty of Seafield which lapsed concurrently with the Findlater Earldom At the second creation he was awarded the above three Scottish titles, the time with remainder to heirs of his estate Accordingly on the death of the above 7th Earl (4th of Seafield) the titles of 1701 passed to a cousin, Sir Lewis Alex Grant 8th Bt who forthwith assumed the additional name of Ogilvie and became 5th Earl of Seafield The 6th Earl was made Bn Strathpey a title previously granted to the 7th but lapsing on the death of his successor 'Burke' now adopts 'Ogilvie Grant' as the surname in place of his former 'Grant-Ogilvie' Conventionally it is Grant only, and hence the family have evidently been indifferent as to the compound order

SHREWSBURY (pron Shroshbury), EARL OF, and EARL TALBOT CHARLES HENRY JOHN (Chevynd-) Talbot, 20th E of Shrewsbury (Eng.) and 5th Earl Talbot (St Br.), E of Waterford (Irel), PREM EARL on Rolls both of Eng and Irel, but see INTRON under "Earl." K C V O (1907), Hered Lord High Steward of Ireland and High Steward of the Borough of Stafford, formerly Lieut Staffordshire Yeom, son of 19th E b Nov 13, 1860, suc 1877 (C), mar 1882 Ellen Mary, dau of the late Chas R Palmer-Morewood, Esq, and divorced wife of Alf E M Mundy, Esq Seat, Ingestree Hall, Stafford (Clas of S, Alton Towers, Stoke-upon-Trent)

CREATIONS Eng - E of Shrewsbury, 2442 St Br Bn Talbot, 1733, Earl Talbot and Viso Ingestree, 1784 Irel - E of Waterford, 2445 - A Barony of Talbot by writ commenced in 1333 and that out of a feudal Barony dating from the time of Henry I., and thus Peerage continued until it is now for the second time in abeyance. Jno Talbot, 7th Bn (a Buss was 5th in line), a great Commander in the French wars, termed by Shakespeare "the great Almshouse of the field," though once defeated and taken prisoner by Joan of Arc, was created Earl of Shrewsbury and of Waterford, being twice made Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. He was slain in his 60th year after having been victorious in forty fights, and the English dominion in France practically expired with him. The 2nd Earl fell at Northampton on the Lan-castrian side. The 5th Earl became 4th husband of the proud and unscrupulous woman Elizabeth, daughter of John Hardwick. The 11th Earl died from a wound received in a duel with the 2nd Duke of Buckingham. The 12th was created Duke of Shrewsbury (1594) for his services in transferring the crown to William of Orange (the having embraced the Protestant religion in place of that of his ancestors) he was afterwards influential in securing the succession of George I. But he left no issue and the Dukedom expired. His cousin and successor returned to the older religion and was in holy orders. The above Barony of 1333, after its first abeyance, passed by marriage into the Norfolk Dukedom, in which it remained until the death of the 9th Duke in 1777. Meanwhile in 1733 there had been created the still existing Barony of Talbot (of Hensoll), which was conferred upon Chas Talbot, son of the militant Bp of Durham (see INTRON), "Bishops" and a descendant of one of the younger sons of the said Earl, himself being successively M P for Tregony and Durham, a P C, and afterwards Lord Chancellor. His son and successor Lord Steward of the Household, was created Earl Talbot. The elder Shrewsbury line became extinct with the 17th Earl in 1845, so that the succession then passed to the 2nd Earl Talbot, who became 18th Earl of Shrewsbury and of Waterford. The additional surname Chevynd was taken by royal licence by the 1st Earl Talbot, but it is generally ignored in use except in legal documents.

* There is an indistinct account of an earlier line of this line created in 1893, which date is to be found in some of the Baronetages, though they only commence counting the Barons from 1794. In 1893 the entire line is relegated to his "Chaos," with the statement that an ancestor was "said to have been created a Baronet of Nova Scotia Jan a 1893, by patent not 18, related, to the heirs male of his body," in which case "the title expired in the person of the 1st Bt." But "Burke's" gives Oct 12, 1794, as the date of a new creation free from any doubt whatever, and supplies the names and dates of all the six Bts who have followed the 1st. Note that the three lines of Sinclair Baronets are all of Cathness-sh, and that the Earl of Cathness and his. Scotland bear the same surname

CREATIONS 4th D. of Somerset and Bn. Seymour, 1547 (Barony one day bef. Dukedom), a Bt. 1712.—Sir Edw. Seymour, brother of Jane Seymour and Kt. of the Bath, who became 1st Duke, was a great favourite with Henry VIII., who appointed him Protector of his son Edward VI. (the Duke's nephew). He was also made Earl Marshal and Lord Great Chamberlain, both for life only. A grandson was the first to receive the Barony. The Protector however, was brought to the block in 1552 through an outrageous usurpation of authority on the part of some leading nobles abetted by the Roman Catholics. His titles were thus forfeited, but one of his sons was made Earl of Hertford and Bn. Beauchamp. This nobleman married Catherine, sister of Lady Jane Grey, and her being of royal descent rendered the union criminal in law, both of them were accordingly sent to the Tower, the Earl remaining there for nine years and his wife dying. His grandson succeeded him and was in 1560 created Marq. of Hertford, and in 1566 the Dukedom and Seymour Barony were restored with the original precedence. He unhappily was guilty of a like indiscretion to that of his grandfather, for he secretly married James I.'s 1st cousin, Lady Arabella Stuart, and had in consequence to flee the country, whilst his wife died in the Tower. The Marquessate expired with the 4th Duke, but the Dukedom and the titles of 1547 went to a cousin, who was shot in Italy by the husband of a lady to whom he had been affianced. The 5th Peer, who was known as "The Proud Duke," married Lady Bliz. Percy, daughter of the last Earl of Northumberland, distinguished as Mistress of the Robes to Queen Anne. The 7th Duke was given the lapsed Maridom just named, but both that and the Hertford Maridom, with some other honours, lapsed the 11th Duke, the Dukedom came more and so to a collateral. This leading title, the second in rank in the Peerage of England, had been originally created in 1443, and was repeatedly extinct or forfeited before 1547, the Duke having been beheaded in 1543 when taken in arms against Edward IV at Edgemoor. The surname was long corrupted into Somerset, but the original St. Maur was restored by the 13th Duke.

ORIGIN U.K. Bn Strafford, 1825, E of Strafford and Visc. Rindell, 1847—This well known Earlom of more illustrious times was revived and awarded to Ed-ward Marshal the Rt Hon. Sir John Byng, G.C.B., & O.H., grandson of the 1st Visc Torrington and on his mother's side a descendant of the Wentworth family, to whom the original Peerage was assigned. he was a distinguished Commander in the Peninsula and at Waterloo. The Barony was conferred on him first and the Lordship twelve years later. Both the 1st and 3rd Dukes were summoned to the Lords in their fathers' Barony, having previously sat in the Commons. The 3rd Duke was Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs and for India. Of earlier holders of the Earldom the first was Thomas Wentworth who was impeached and beheaded in 1649. His son had the honours restored to him in 1660 but he died childless in 1662. The title was again revived in 1712 and conferred upon the 3rd Duke who was great nephew of the 1st Duke, and under this creation it was held by three Peers and expired in 1790.

CREATORS Eng E of Suffolk, 1263 Vice Andover and Bn Howard of Charlton, 1264, E of Berkshire 1265—Lord Thos Howard, son of the aforesaid 4th Duke of Norfolk (beheaded 1571), was created Earl of Suffolk, he had been a distinguished naval officer under Elizabeth and was specially vigilant in discovering the Gunpowder Plot, later on he was appointed Chancellor of Cambridge University and Lord High Treasurer of England. Previously to the Earldom he had received the Barony of Howard de Walden but that Barony fell into abeyance on the death of the 3rd Earl and ultimately was revived in a different branch of the family. The 1st Earl's son and son was created Vice Andover and afterwards Earl of Berkshire. The 4th Earl of the latter title succeeded as 11th Earl of Suffolk (the tenures of title in this line having averaged much shorter than those of the other owing to a brother or uncle having succeeded in four instances). Former Earldoms of Suffolk had existed and one of them in 1228 rose to be a Dukedom, the 1st Duke was beheaded in 1533 and a 4th created a year after, the 7th and last was beheaded in 1554. There had also been one Earl of Berkshire previous to the above creation but this lasted only 1263.

The 12th Earl was succeeded by his sister. The 14th (rather 15th, if the Countess is reckoned) forfeited his title in 1566 from suspected complicity in the Earl of Huntly's rebellion, but it was restored in 1568 from which date his precedence is reckoned in the Scottish Roll of Peers. He was afterwards poisoned by his uncle's widow, who wanted the title for her son but his own son escaped by accidental detention from the poisoned meal and the perpetrator was sentenced to death, but preferred suicide in prison. The Countess who was 2nd in line married the 2nd Marq of Stafford, who long afterwards was created 2nd Duke (in 1833). The 2nd Bn Gower was Sir Jno Leveson Gower, 5th Bt who had married a daughter of the 2nd Duke of Rutland. His successor was raised to the Earldom, the 2nd Earl to the Marquessate, and the 3rd Marq to the Dukedom.

It was the said Duke who assumed the additional name of Sutherland

The 5th Vice, who, being a collateral obtained the Countship only by new creation as a reward for his services defeated the Turks at the Siege of Belgrade. The 4th Count (5th Vice) was Governor of Syria and Galicia and President of the Supreme Court of Appeal at Vienna. The series of foreign assignments led to a questioning by the House of Lords as to the next Vice's status as a British subject, but this was recommenced by the Committee of Privileges in 1880. The 12th Vice was Prime Minister of Austria 1879-83

Barnswall was created 1st Bn by Edward IV. His successor had to receive a pardon for participation in the plot of Lambert Simnel. The 2d Bn was Lord High Chancellor of Ireland. On the death of the 15th Peer in 1870 the title was dormant till 1891, when it was claimed by a remote cousin who died the same year, before his right had been established, thus precluding him consequently to be undertaken by his brother the present Baron. In 1893 there was a dispute as to the precedence between the 1st and 2d Bns, but the latter and it was then decided in favour of the former. In 1893 when the present Peer established his right the order was reversed, but still later a new Roll was made up with "Trimbleston" before to its former position

ment was created a Baronet (the second person in Ireland to obtain that title) and afterwards made Bn Mountmorris. The Viscounty was a reversionary grant to fall to Sir Francis on the death of the then Vis., who was without an heir (his Henry Power, cr Vis 1822 & 1832). The Mountmorris Baroncy was valid at once. The then Vis. was made Earl of Anglesey and Bn Annesley in the English Peerage and these titles descended to the 5th Earl, who was also 5th Bn. Anthon a title conferred on the 1st Earl's son. But on his death in 1872 the English House of Lords refused to admit this 5th Earl's eldest son, raising an objection to his legal issue which the Irish Parliament had accepted as good. He thus retained the Irish honours and had that of Earl of Mountmorris added to them—in England that went no further than his only surviving son (1793-1841). The Viscounty and the Mountmorris Baroncy now passed again to a collateral the grandfather and predecessor of the present Peer. Doubtless, however regards both of these as unsubstantiated claims only stating that they have never had their titles established by the Committee of Privileges.

CREATION Eng Bn Brooke, 1622 Gt Br Earl Brooke 1740 D of Warwick, 1759-The Rt Hon Sir Fulke Greville a Kt of the Bath and Chancellor of the Exchequer was created 1st Bn Brooke he was descended on the female side from the brother of Wm de Beuchamp 20th Earl of Warwick (died 1298) in the original line. The said Bn was a general in the Parliamentary Army at Edgehill and in the Siege of Lichfield during the latter of which he was killed by a musket ball. The 4th Bn was one of the Commissioners who invited Charles II to return. The 5th Bn was promoted to be Earl Brooke and later, when a pre-existing Earl of Warwick had become extinct that title was added to his previous one. There had been Dukes of Warwick from the time of William I, and the extinctions forfeitures and beheadings which have followed them makes the title a rival in tragedy with the Norfolk Dukedom. These commentators however have been happily absent from the present line of descent. The 13th Earl of the original line brother-in-law of the famous "king maker" who in 1460 was created Earl for life was promoted to be Duke of Warwick and crowned "King of the Isle of Wight" by Henry VI's own hand. These latter honours went no further than himself and his sister's husband, who received the Earl dom by a fresh creation was slain at Barnet in 1471. Edward IV's brother, the Duke of Clarence, was the next recipient of the title but he was attainted and murdered his three successors being all beheaded. The second of these who thus suffered was Margaret, Countess of Salisbury and Warwick whilst the third who was previously Viso Lisle was created Duke of Northumberland and two years before his execution. His son was restored to the Earldom, but died childless in 1599 when the title remained extinct until a new series of eight Earls now followed, and upon the lapsing of their line in 1747 that of the present Earl succeeded as stated above "Earl Brooke," being the older, is the leading title upon the Roll

CHESHAM, Lord. Du. Lt. Peer, 1893 by writ a Bt. 1866. Vice Tyrone and Br. Stamford, 1902. B of Tyrone, 1906. M. of Waterford, 1906. Gt Br. Br. Tyrone 1906—Burke gives us the precise date of creation of the original Barony but does not give the name of its first holder, so that it appears doubtful whether he is satisfied of its existence. Du. Lt. Peer, now a title under attestation from about 1900, and the bar to which is B de P de la Poi, (see), he gives us as a descendant of Robert de Poher Knight Marshal and Joint Governor of Ireland in 1199. The 5th Du. was in 1896 created Earl of Tyrone and Viscount, but these titles expired with the 3rd Earl. The daughter of this last however, who was allowed the Barony of La Poer in 1898 married Sir Marcus Darnley 4th Bt. and to him were assigned the Viscounty of Tyrone and subsequently a remainder of the lapsed Barony. The 2nd Earl was elevated to the Marquessate and created Du. Tyrone of St Briton whilst on the death of his mother, he inherited also the Barony of La Poer—the only Irish Peerage besides the Marquessate Viscounty which is open to female succession. The 4th Marq. was in holy orders, and the 5th who had represented Co. Waterford in Parliament became its Member, a K.P., and Master of the Buckhounds

CREATIONS U K Visc Wellington and Bn Douro 1809, Mary and Earl of Wellington 1812, D of Wellington and Miami Douro, 1814, Irel, Mar Mornington, 1796 E of Mornington and Vise Wellesley, 1796 Welsh, Prince of Waterloo, 1813, Spain, Duque de Ciudad Rodrigo and a Grandee of the 1st Class 1812 Portugal, Conde do Vimieiro 1812, Duque da Victoria (commonly spelt Victoria, but the town is in Spain, where it is never used), and Marques de Torre Vedras 1812—Of the deeds of the great Duke of Wellington the 'hero' of a hundred fights this book is called upon to chronicle but the slightest summary. He sat in the Irish Parliament in 1790 as Member for Trim, but from 1794 to 1798 his career was all but wholly a military one. His first great battle was that of Assaye (1803) in the Nizam's dominions and after it came the long series of the Peninsular War—Vimeiro, Talavera, Busaco, Fuentes d'Onore, Ciudad Rodrigo, Badajoz, Salamanca, and Vittoria (these in 1808-9), followed by Orthes and Toulouse in France (1814) and then Quatre Bras and Waterloo. From Jan 1815 for not quite three years he was Prime Minister. He died in 1852 at the age of 83. All the honours of U K and the Dominions were accorded to him personally. His grandaughter, the 2nd Bn Mornington (Irish Pairage) was Richard Colley who assumed a cousin's surname of Welley (the celebrated Rev Geo Welley was a relative) and afterwards changed it to Wellesley. The 1st Bn obtained the Earldom of Mornington, and his 2nd son was the 2nd Duke. The two elder sons were respectively Richard and Earl created Mary Wellesley in Ireland, who was Governor General of India but died childless, and William, 3rd Earl, created Bn. Mary borough—both titles passing to his son and grandson but that of Maryborough lapsing on the death of this last in 1869 when the Mornington titles and the Wellesley Viscy went to the 2nd Duke

Thos and Peor obtained a new patent giving remainder of his Earldom and Lordship to his daughter and her heirs male. The heir of the Earl 5th in line was attainted for taking part in the rebellion of 1745, so that the titles remained dormant with his father's (death till his own 1756-87) when as he left no issue his brother succeeded as untouching by the attainer 1st Burke 1st Viscount, singularly calls the attainted successor 6th Earl de jure thus making the present Peer the 10th. Heberts on the other hand, omitting the C's, in thenumbering, styles him only the 8th. The latter's grandon the 7th Earl inherited also the Earldom or March, first bestowed on a son of the 1st Duke of Queensberry the Hon W Douglas whose sister had married the 4th Earl of Wemyss. The 7th Earl was like was the recipient of the U S Bury Burns's son conventionally character only thus had been assumed in 1772 by the 6th Earl, Douglas appears to have been added by the 7th on his access on to the March Earldom with the landed estate of his great grandmother Lady Anne Douglas

WESTMEATH, EARL OF ANTHONY FRANKIS Nugent, 11th Earl (died), an Irish Repres Peer (el 1901), PC (died 1902), B A, Hon LL D, a DL for Co Galway, and a memb of Senate of Roy Univ, late Asst Priv Sec to Rt Hon J Chamberlain, prev Hon Attaché to Brit Emb at Washington, son of 10th E b Jan 11, 1870, suc 1893 (C), unmrrd Seal, Pallas, Loughrea, Co Galway

CREATIONS 1st Bn of Delvin, perhaps 1389 by writ, 2d of Westmeath 1587—The name of Gilbert de Nugent is given as that of the 1st Bn. by tenure The title then passed by marriages to the FitzJohn family, but came back by the same process to Sir Wm Nugent In concert with the Earl of Kildare the 12th Bn was engaged in hostilities with the native Chiefs, by one of whom O'Connor he was treacherously made a prisoner and kept long in confinement The 14th Bn was commissioned by the Crown to extirpate the O'Mores but was sent prisoner to London in 1580 on suspicion of holding unreasonable correspondence with the Leinster rebels having however established his innocence he returned to Ireland and Elizabeth ordered him several grants of forfeited land which the troubles of the country prevented his receiving His son, the 15th Bn was raised to the Earldom The 4th Earl was outlawed for having fought for James II, but the sentence was afterwards remitted The 6th Earl conformed to the Protestant Church The 8th, as in 1822 created a Marquess, but he left no son and that title lapsed in 1877 whilst the Earldom passed to a cousin an ancestor of whom had been created Lord Riverston by James II after abdication—the title consequently being never admitted though it continued to be used till its holder became 9th Earl The 10th served on the Continent

CREATIONS Eng Bn. St. John of Basing, 1539, E of Wiltshire, 1550, M. of Winchester, 1551—Sir Wm Paulet, K.G., was the recipient of these three creations. He was a confidant of Henry VIII and held the office of Lord Treasurer of England through the changes of the three succeeding reigns, and on being once asked how he had contrived to stand through them all, he replied, 'By being a willow, not an oak.' The 3rd Peer was given to literature and writing poetry. The 5th sacri- ficed all his property through supporting Charles I. in the Civil War, his mansion at Basing being burnt to the ground after a siege. The 6th Marg was made Duke of Bolton, and that title ran through max in the line. The 3rd Duke (8th Marg) involved himself with the actress Lavina Westwick, and had three sons by her previously to the death of his 1st wife. As he had no other issue, though he eventually married the actress, his titles went to his brother, but on the death of the 6th Duke, who was an Admiral of the White, the Dukedom expired and the Marquessate passed to a descendant of the 5th holder of that title. The 13th Marg, in his closing years assumed the additional name of Burroughs, but this appears to have been for himself alone. His grandson the 15th Peer was a Major in the Coldstream Guards and was killed at Magersfontein in December 1899.

The eldest son succeeded his father in the Baronetcy, but he predeceased his mother so that his next brother became her successor in the Peerage. Sir Henrice Frisch (1st) son of the 3rd brother having been Attorney General and Lord Keeper of the Great Seal, was separately created a Bt and raised to the Peerage as Bt Finch and subsequently appointed Lord Chancellor with the title of Earl of Nottingham. His son the said Earl succeeded as 7th Earl of Winchilsea. Previously he had the 3rd Earl of Winchilsea (distinguished by having 27 children), who was high in favour with the said Charles and James (prevalence upon the latter to return to London on his first attempt of flight), was made Bt. The said Earl, a title that survived with the 5th Earl. His successor named above is living and had the two Earldoms, was twice secretary of State under William Anne and George I.

INDEX TO THE SEATS AND RESIDENCES CITED IN THE FOREGOING DIRECTORY

*. The design of this Index, the comprehensiveness of which we have been compelled somewhat to limit in order to furnish a ready means of reference to the occupant of every address in the Directory within the British Isles provided it bears a distinctive name, is non official in character and held by a person not lower in rank than a Knight or the son or daughter of a Baron. The only exceptions are those of unobscured claimants or of ladies whose former claims to titles have been forfeited by re-marriage. Many residences will doubtless be merely villas or even houses in a terrace distinguished by some special name, but no line of exclusion can possibly be drawn nor is it called for in a list which is not restricted to seats. On the other hand there are almost certainly a large number of villages and hamlets cited in the form of residences, but this also is unavoidable (except by the putting of questions which would often be thought offensive) in view of the large number of actual seats which are designated by apparently local names without the addition of the word House, Hall, or Park. Yet again, there are a large number of residences which are appended to more than one name in the Directory, and in these cases, if relationship cannot be traced, it is presumable that one name represents the occupant and the other the owner. We have done our best to make the distinction clear, or at any rate to supply the name of the occupant.

The greatest pains have been taken to supply to every address the far too frequently omitted post town a long dash being substituted when the Editor's efforts for its discovery have been without avail. More complete addresses will very often be found under the names in the Directory but they are never consciously so abridged as to entail extra labour on the Post Office. It should be noted in the case of such abridgements as "Gloucester" "Worcester" "Leicester" that they invariably denote the county and not the county town—no town whatever being contracted to a single letter. "Durham" without "Co." means the city of Durham and similarly in numerous Irish examples.

At the cost of much additional space every address is now given in the style prescribed under our "Modes of Addressing the sons of Titles" many contractions however, will naturally be expanded in copying. The names and style of the wife is appended in those numerous instances in which the husband does not hold a title which would on his own account have given him a place in this work.

The rule observed in alphabetizing has been to treat the entire name of the residence as one word (the parenthesized "The" coming out of its true position) can only be ignored) this course is unavoidable on account of the vast number of instances in which a compound designation is spelt by some in a single word and by others in two

Don't be deceived by Imitations.

Our Coats are PURE WOOL, and never have the damp feeling of the Cotton and Linen imitations now so largely sold by various makers. ### BATH.

The ancient Episcopal City of Bath, the "Queen of Spas," as termed by its natives occupies a leading position as a fashionable inland watering-place. Nestled on the banks of the River Avon, 11 miles from Bristol, and 107 miles from the Metropolis, Bath stands on an elevation of from 50 to 550 feet above sea-level, and has a population of about 50,000. Bath possesses an unrivalled combination of Archeological, Social, Historical, and Scenic attractions, besides the famous hot springs to which the city owes its origin, then healing virtues being tried annually by 100,000 bathers. The surrounding country is beautifully diversified, there being plenty of woodland and hills. The water supply is constant, and the drainage system is conducted on the most modern principle.

Writing on its qualities, the Medical Officer of Health for Bath says:—

"Bath is noted for possessing a great variety of climates within a comparatively circumscribed area. Central Bath has an equable climate, genial in the coldest weather, and eminently suitable for invalids and elderly people, while the modern developments of electric traction, electric tram-cars, motor omnibuses and taximeter cabs, have brought within easy reach the heights of Lansdown on the north, and those of Combe Down on the south. Lansdown is 750 feet above sea level, with bracing winds, and a limited view of the Bristol Channel. On the north may be seen the pleasing undulations of Gloucestershire, while on the south, terracing the opposing slopes, the fair city of Bath reclines.

"Buildings are scarce on Lansdown, and the views may be enjoyed during a two-mile drive on a level road to the ancient battlefield. The road is dry, being bedded on the cap of Great Oolite or Bath Stone, which is from 100 to 200 feet in thickness. Underlying the Oolite is the Fullers' Earth formation, which being more easily denuded gives gradual slopes. Immediately under the Fullers' Earth is the Inferior Oolite, the outcrop of which may be seen in the lane leading down to the picturesque village of Charlcombe.

"The River Avon coming northward from Limpley Stoke enters the Bath valley at Bathford, and is deflected sharply to the south-west, making another curve round Bath. It flows some distance in the direction of north-west, its course through Bath being curve-like, showing how great must be the variety of aspects enjoyed by the buildings on its banks, which, with the varying sub soils, explain the varying climates.

"The Hot Springs of Bath yield a constant daily flow of over half a million gallons at a temperature of 125° F. throughout only slight variation in either temperature or volume has been noted, and the water must have traversed a considerable distance at from one to two miles below the surface.

"The therapeutic value of the thermal water is most manifest in the treatment of gout and rheumatism, and if its specific action is a curative agent for these primary diseases, is acknowledged, as it must be if we accept the cumulative evidence of eighteen hundred years, it follows that the use of these springs may be expected to be beneficial in most of those diseases which owe their origin either to gout or rheumatism, or to these maladies in combination. The most brilliant cures are probably those obtained in cases of muscular rheumatism, and various forms of neuritis such as sciatica, while in many forms of arthritis or disease of the joints, fairly complete arrest of the disease may result, and be maintained if the treatment is repeated every two or three years. The 'cure' occupies three or four weeks of the winter or early spring, as it is then that a fresh onset of the disease is most likely, but if symptoms supervene at any period of the year, through indications of diet or through special strain of overwork or worry, the treatment should not be delayed for any special season of the year.

"The baths are not recommended for the acute stage of any disease, nor for tubercular disease at any time. Valvular diseases of the heart and epilepsy should not be treated by the baths. But drinking the water will be beneficial to the healthy and unhealthy alike, unless the blood-vessels are extensively diseased." (See p. 1111.)

BATH THE PREMIER HEALTH RESORT

The Hot Mineral Waters, rising at a temperature of 125°, are administered at the completely equipped and luxuriously appointed Bathing Establishment. The Hot Springs of Bath are unrivalled for the cure of Gout, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Diseases of the Skin, and many other complaints.

High-class Symphony and Promenade Concerts are given in the beautiful Concert Hall, which opens on to covered terraces overlooking the renowned Roman Baths. In the same building drawing, reading and smoking rooms afford the comforts of a private club.

Historic houses, charming scenery, golf and hunting, indoor and outdoor amusements provide interest for every day.

BUXTON.

Standing as it does in the centre of the Peak district 1,000 feet above sea-level and surrounded by hills and moorlands Buxton has become famous as an ideal health resort. But the importance of the town is mainly due to the curative properties of its mineral springs. So popular have these become, that they are annually visited by over ninety thousand people, and every season marks a greater inflow of visitors to the town. The thermal waters are beautifully soft and clean, and of a light blue colour, differing materially from most spa waters, which are discoloured and unpleasant to bathe in. Their excellent properties render them admirably adapted for douches-massage. The Buxton waters are rich in nitrogen, and carbon forms about 2 per cent of the total amount of gas. Besides the simple thermal waters, there are non-gaseous, chalybeate waters. Both the chalybeate and thermal waters are taken internally, the latter in doses of four ounces to half a pint.

The summer months, April to September, are those in which the course is usually taken, but the baths are open throughout the year. Buxton is well supplied with promenades, there is excellent provision for amusement, and ample opportunities exist for recreation.

Buxton is famous for its magnificent scenery, loaths, &c. in centre of Peak district, 1,000 ft. above sea-level—the highest in England—and nowhere is the air purer or more bracing. Winter supply exceedingly good and soft. Epidemics are unknown. Prevailing winds, west and south-west. Buxton has a drier atmosphere than in the great majority of other resorts, difficult to find a more healthy place or one more suitable for growing boys and girls. Situated at a great elevation among the high lands of the Peak district of Derbyshire, the town of Buxton lies in a deep valley built upon the junction of the mountain limestone and the millstone grit, and is surrounded by bold and picturesque hill and moorland scenery. (See p. 121.)

One of the original and most widely known of English Spas, Cheltenham can still hold its own in competing for the patronage of physician and patient who are seeking a convenient place for a cure by water drinking, baths, massage, rest, and a change of scene and society.

The climate is soft, milder in winter and cooler in summer than that of London, though it affords upon the closely neighbouring Cotswold Hills a much more bracing air.

The mineral waters of Cheltenham now in chief use are called respectively the Magnesia Water, the Soda-Sulphate Saline, and the Alkaline Water. These waters are held to be of therapeutic value in gouty conditions, dyspepsia, constipation, obesity, gravel, or stone in bladder or kidney, gall stones and skin diseases. The artificially concentrated water of the Cheltenham Villa Well is known as "Cheltenham Natural Alkaline Water." The new "Central Spa," where the Montpellier, Pittville and Cheltenham Villa waters may be taken, was inaugurated less than three years ago. External treatment can be obtained at the Montpellier Baths under the control of the Corporation.

DROITWICH.

It would be difficult to find more picturesque houses. Droitwich situated amidst charming country, and within easy reach of Worcester, holds a unique position among English Spas. Droitwich possesses a brine which may properly be regarded as a saturated solution of common salt. The composition of the brine is 22212.880 grains per gallon is follows:—

Chloride of Sodium	2175	872	Sulphate of Soda	342	720
Chloride of Magnesium	2	560	Iodide of Sodium		205
Sulphate of Lime	91	120	Total Salts to an Imp. Gallon	22212	880
Sulphate of Alumina	14	400

The brine has a specific gravity of 1.2129 and it has been shown to contain very marked radioactive properties. The baths have been brought thoroughly up-to-date and the Spa continues to grow in popularity.

The chief diseases for which Droitwich treatment is indicated are various forms of neuritis, especially sciatica, all the more chronic forms of gouty and rheumatic joint trouble, especially rheumatoid arthritis or disease of the joints. A most direct benefit from the treatment. Various forms of heart disease show considerable improvement under the special course adopted for their treatment. The joint stiffness following on acute rheumatism is quickly relieved. Inflammation of the muscles and fibrous tissue, so common after influenza, gain a speedy cure.

HARROGATE. See p xxxviii

This fashionable inland watering place, renowned for the medicinal properties of its waters, the magnificence of its baths and the completeness of its hydropathic system, stands on a moorland plateau in the West Riding of Yorkshire, at a mean altitude of 400 feet.

Harrogate, with its great variety of springs, represents the resources of more than one Continental place of repute. It has its Kissingen, it has Auvergne springs, and it has a chloride-of-iron well of special and wide repute. The scenery in and around Harrogate is very attractive. Considering that, in addition to such natural advantages, the place offers much social diversion and many interesting excursions, we are justified in speaking of it as taking a position of the first rank among bath resorts in this or indeed, in any country. There are about eighty different mineral springs at Harrogate, and the active constituents vary greatly, in amount and kind, in the various waters. Most of them are cold mineral waters, containing sulphuretted hydrogen and sulphide of sodium.

Harrogate is the most important centre in Yorkshire for thoroughly equipped private secondary schools. The enterprise and educational zeal of highly qualified teachers, aided by the salubrity of the climate, have made these schools famous in every part of England. Harrogate is known as the "Queen of English (Inland) Watering Places," and is world renowned for the medicinal properties of its waters and its magnificent baths, which are acknowledged to be the finest in Europe. The distinguishing features of the climate of Harrogate are its bracing atmosphere, low humidity and abundant sunshine. The mortality is and always has been remarkably low. During the last 10 years the average death-rate has been 12.62 per 1000. The incidence of disease amongst the resident population is low. Epidemic diseases are uncommon, and when they occur they are most frequently from imported cases. Respiratory diseases are infrequent and rheumatic fever is seldom seen. Harrogate is undoubtedly one of the best drained towns in the kingdom. Sunshine records, average for 5 years, 1,796 hours. (See pp lxi and lxxxi.)

MALVERN.

Great Malvern is an example of a Garden City. It is a favourite watering-place, residential town, and sanatorium centre, lying in the garden plains at the foot of the Malvern Hills, noted for their fine spring waters, pure air, and invigorating climate.

Malvern Water—from its extreme purity, and through the medical orders of distinguished Physicians—has come largely into use as a STIMULANT WATER, free from lime and all injurious salts, so that it may be termed an efficient Protection against Typhoid, Erysipelas, Disease &c. There are many Springs of widely varying quality in or near Malvern—the first being the HUSCHING SPRING in the Mount Hill above Great Malvern.

The Droitwich Bore is now conveyed directly from Droitwich to Malvern so that the well known Bore-baths may be obtained at Malvern also if required.

Great Malvern and the neighbourhood are much visited by invalids for whom a rather bracing dry inland climate is required, the place is open throughout the year. There are plenty of amusements in the shape of a theatre, concert hall, and open-air concerts, and two golf courses. See p. 151.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS.

Situated in the midst of charming scenery, chiefly in Kent, but partly in Sussex, Tunbridge Wells owes its popularity to its chalybeate spring and its mineral waters. It is a handsome and self-sustained town of 35,000 inhabitants, built in an irregular manner, alongside an extensive common surrounded by hills, and the neighbourhood is rich in park lands, woods, and pastoral beauty. The climate is of the dry and bracing kind. It owes its popularity to the geological situation and to the formation of the surface. Between it and London, not far distant, but lying on different strata, is for instance Tunbridge, the climatic differences are great.

Tunbridge Wells was chiefly visited for its chalybeate water, which contains about 0.05 per cent. carbonic acid, but is it is very pure in free carbonic acid, and is cannot be ranked with the chalybeate waters of Spa in Belgium and Schwabach in Germany. The place is now a climatic resort much visited by convalescents during the summer months. The well situated on the Pantiles is the most important of the mineral springs to which the town owes its name and its fame. The mineral water is only used for drinking purposes, not would there be any advantage in employing it for bathing. The patients treated by means of the mineral water are almost always sufferers from indigestion and debility. In cases of severe indigestion the iron contained in the water is not in itself sufficient to effect a cure, and preparations of iron are administered as adjuncts to the course. The length of the course is two months, and it may be entered upon at any season of the year. The recovery of invalid and weakly persons who resort to Tunbridge Wells for treatment is doubtless greatly aided by the climatic advantages for which the place is justly celebrated. See p. 133.

BOYS' and GIRLS' SCHOOLS.

Whitaker's system of Schedule Registers has been established in order to enable Parents and Guardians, in search of a suitable School, to ascertain all those particulars which cannot be contained in an advertisement in Whitaker's publications.

Two pages in each Register are allotted to every School. The Schedules are most comprehensive, and the particulars are classified under five headings, viz., General Information, School Buildings, Education, Special Features, and Domestic Arrangements.

Only one form of Schedule is used, consequently all essential points can be obtained at a glance from the Register more quickly and easily than by reading through the ordinary prospectuses.

BOURNEMOUTH (Hants).

The Medical Officer of Health writes — "For the past 50 years, Bournemouth has been adding to its reputation as one of the most perfect sanatoria in the United Kingdom. From early days it had gained a reputation with eminent men in the medical faculty, who found that a residence here for their patients for a few months in the spring, summer or winter gained lasting benefit, and in many cases the climate was curative in its effects, more especially to those suffering from diseases of the respiratory organs." This fashionable south coast health resort extends along a stretch of three broken cliffs in the wide open bay which forms the western extremity of Hampshire, and in recent years it has grown to considerable proportions. It owes its prosperity to the natural beauty of its situation, its climatic advantages, and the purity of its air, laden with the aromatic health-giving exhalations of its innumerable pine trees. Bright sunshine (1999), 1,906 hours, London, 1,305 hours.

Marine and Low-moat. Population, about 52,000. L.B. & S. 11th Pk. 62 miles from London. Elevation from sea level to 140 feet above the districts of Mid and Upperton stand upon very high ground. Climate mild invigorating, moderate rainfall. Bathing excellent.

The Medical Officer of Health writes — 'Its advantages as a health resort are much sunshine, pure air, absence of fog, clean quickly draining roads, lawns, parks and gardens with many trees, plentiful and good water supply from wells sunk in the deep chalk, and the proximity to the breezy, health-giving South Downs. The climate is generally beneficial in many scrofula and tubercular diseases, and its effects are especially beneficial in the case of convalescent children. Deaths in 1909 inclusive, 10.6 per 1,000 of residents, 10.0. Full benefit of winter sun is secured. Warm, sunny shelter always obtainable in centre of town. Souly Head breaks S.W. winds, and directs much rain down to the sea being promoted by great porosity of chalk. More sunshine recorded than in any other place in England for two years following, 1906 and 1907, and nearly half in 1908 and 1909. Sunshine, 1,904 hrs. in 1909.'

Eastbourne is situated on the coast between Brighton and Hastings, on the eastern slopes of Beachy Head, which rises 550 feet above the sea and shelters the town. Eastbourne has developed, under the fostering influence of the Devonshire and Gilbert families into a fashionable watering-place (select but not dully) a residential town (within one and a half hours' from London by express train), and an important educational centre. The sea-front extends for a distance of three miles, without a single shop to mar the grand effect. A marine drive between the houses on the piers and the promenade is arranged at three levels, with garden terraces laid out with floral designs.

The Central area is level and contains the railway station and post office in Talmage Road, the town hall and the free library in Grove Road (both fine buildings) also the principal hotels, boarding establishments, apartment houses and shops.

The Malvern Hills consist of a single chain of 1000 ft. high hills 10 miles in length. About 16 counties on a clear day can be seen from the top. The Hills which rise to an altitude of 1400 feet are easily accessible for delicate persons, either on foot or by carriage. The climate has a most beneficial effect on invalids. The houses are so placed as to receive more than the ordinary amount of sunshine. ## RAMSGATE (Kent).

The Medical Officer of Health writes — "The climate of Ramsgate is equable, invigorating, and bracing, unmarred by sudden change. In the summer the sun's rays are deliciously tempered by cool sea breezes. Days are practically unknown. The amount of bright sunshine in 1908 was 1,840 hours, 51 minutes. During the last five years there have been altogether 9,040 hours or bright sunshine, giving an annual average of 1,808 hours and 5 minutes, and a daily average of almost exactly 5 hours. A lively seaport, a fighting station, and important fishing centre, Ramsgate occupies a position in between Deal and Broadstairs, sheltered against the north and east winds. This accounts for its reputation as a healthy residential town and justifies its climatic claims in summer mild, and in winter warm, to the continued support of Londoners. Population, 27,733."

Population 4300. A beautiful Sussex seaside resort. Seaford lies 53 miles from London (L.B. & S.C. Rly.) in a hollow in the South Downs, not far from the mouth of the Ouse and Newhaven. On the Sussex coast 53 miles from London between Brighton and Littlebourne. L.B. & S.C. Rly. Climate of Seaford is equable but bracing for south coast health resort. Never very cold in winter and summer heat always tempered by cool sea breeze so that hottest days in summer are not relaxing. It is a quite eminently suitable to convalescents. The air has a true tonic effect on sick patients and produces a really marvellous improvement in a short time. The climate is dry, rainfall being small and owing to chalky sub-soil quickly absorbed. There is a large amount of sunshine enjoyed and nothing to interrupt it. There are no high hills to the west to cut off the evening light and in the winter the sun sets in the ocean. The prevailing winds are south and west. From the north and east winds the town is considerably protected by high downs. The death rate has always been remarkably low, and the great age to which many inhabitants live is quite proverbial.

Recreations—Golf, two clubs each with gentlemen's links (18 holes) and ladies' course, rowing and sailing boats, gull net-fishing and freshwater fishing.

EDUCATIONAL SUPPLEMENT.

CONTINENTAL SECTION.

From enquiries which have been made it has been ascertained that the scope and utility of the Educational Supplement would be greatly increased as a medium for facilitating the selection of a suitable school by the inclusion of a section for schools on the Continent.

A large number of English-speaking people send their children to the Continent for education and it must be of utility to many readers to have a separate section relating to schools on the Continent.

In order to make the Continental Section of practical use to readers of the Peacemaker the proprietors are particularly desirous that it should constitute a reliable guide to Educational Establishments of the best class.

With this object in view all applications for the Continental Section must be first recommended by Messrs GABBITAS, THIRING & Co, 36, Sackville Street, London.

PURCHASES—The Society purchases Reversions and Remainders, whether absolute or contingent, Life Interests, whether in possession or deferred, and generally all Interests (in approved property) that depend upon the duration of human life

LOANS—The Society also grants Loans on the security of such interests, either on Ordinary Mortgage or by way of Reversionary Charge. The latter mode meets the convenience of borrowers who do not wish to make any payment for either principal or interest until their Reversionary Property falls into possession. The amount to which the Society will then be entitled is fixed at the outset, and does not depend on the time elapsing between the grant of the Loan and its repayment. The option of redeeming the Charge during the first three or five years can usually be combined with this form of Loan

Forms of proposal and full information can be obtained at the Society's Office
